High Court Limits Fees For Lawyers

A Stab At Alleviating Malpractice Mess

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's lawyers have been ordered to limit the fees they collect on medical malpractice suits and other personal injury cases to no more than one-third of what juries award.

The state Supreme Court order, issued Friday, was seen as an attempt to help cut soaring medical malpractice insurance costs in Michigan.

A number of lawyers now collect 50 cents on the dollar in malpractice suit settlements, legal sources said.

The Supreme Court order, which was effective immediately, will cut the legal fee to 33 cents on the dollar for settlements up to $250,000. Lawyer fees will be a maximum 20 per cent for settlements between $250,000 and $500,000 and no more than 10 per cent for bigger settlements.

About 2,100 of Michigan's 14,000 lawyers are substantially involved in personal injury suits, said Mike Franck, State Bar of Michigan executive secretary.

The high court's schedule imposes more stringent restrictions on attorney fees for awards over $250,000 than the State Bar recommended, the court said. In other ways, it generally follows State Bar proposals.

The Michigan State Medical Society expressed disappointment that the new fee schedule does not provide even more money for the injured person. But the schedule "will result in more money going to the truly injured patient who honestly deserves compensation," a society statement said.

Franck said the State Bar "feeling is that lawyers should be able to charge their own rates." He added, however, the bar is "happy to see they (the Supreme Court) followed our recommendation."

"About 15 per cent (or about 2,100 lawyers of 14,000) of our

Top U.S. Episcopal Bishop Faces Church Court Trial

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the Episcopal church faces the possibility of being tried on charges of violating church law as the result of an ecclesiastical court's ruling.

The situation is unparalleled in the two centuries of the American denomination's history.

A special church court, trying a local priest on charges of disobedience, declared Friday that Presiding Bishop John M. Allin was guilty of contempt for refusing to appear as a witness.

The court said he had spurned its subpoena and thus was in violation of canonical law. His explanations were "deemed insufficient to excuse him," the court said.

The bishop had been summoned to testify in the church trial of the Rev. William A. Wendt, accused of disobeying his bishop by allowing one of 11 irregularly ordained women to lead a communion service in his church.

In adjudging Bishop Allin in contempt, the diocesan court has no authority to impose penalties, but its action raised the possibility of formal charges and trial of the church's chief spiritual guide.

"It's an absolutely unprecedented circumstance," said the Rev. Charles Perry, executive officer of the church's Washington diocese.

Bishop Allin, a mild-mannered Mississippian who became head of the church last year, could not be reached immediately for comment.

A spokesman at the church's New York headquarters said the bishop was fulfilling prior engagements in Phoenix, Ariz., and St. Louis, Mo., and had decided to "make no comment on the trial."

Church canons make it the duty of any member to heed the summons of an ecclesiastical court to give evidence. A member of the five-member court here, lawyer Janet McCaa, said of its contempt citation:

"No man, and for that matter no woman, is above the law."

The finding was transmitted to the church's House of Bishops and House of Deputies, the two branches of its bicameral legislature.

The defense had succeeded in obtaining the court subpoena for Bishop Allin's testimony because one of the key issues in the case is whether the 11 women were validly ordained. Two weeks after the ordinations last July, the bishop had summoned the church's House of Bishops, which ruled the ordinations invalid. An issue in Father Wendt's trial was whether the House of Bishops had the authority to make such a ruling.

The court's dramatic, unanimous action came at the closing session of the three-day trial. A verdict in the case was not expected for about two weeks.

Father Wendt, 55, testified he gave "conscience the highest authority" in his action and that it had come only after much consultation, scripture reading and prayer to "hear the voice of Jesus."

"After much anguish and wrangling with conscience in every area, I was persuaded it was the proper and right thing to do," he said.

He said he had not disobeyed a direct order, but only "a request" of Bishop William F. Creighton not to allow the Rev. Alison Cheek of Annandale, Va., to celebrate communion last Nov. 10.

Defense attorney William Stringfellow, in his closing arguments, asked the court not only to clear Father Wendt, but to affirm the canonical permissibility of ordaining women and to acknowledge that the Rev. Mrs. Cheek is a validly ordained priest.

Prosecution lawyer E. Tilman Stirling, in his closing remarks, said Father Wendt's claims of adherence to conscience might play a part in the court's sentence, but not in its verdict.

"If you violate the law, you pay the consequences," he said, insisting Bishop Creighton had prohibited Father Wendt from holding the service.

If found guilty, Father Wendt's penalty could range from a mere reprimand to

Hartford Fireman Saves Victim Of Heart Attack

HARTFORD — Von Dean Huddleston, a 36-year-old volunteer fireman here, has been credited with saving the life of a heart attack victim yesterday.

Hartford Fire Chief Harold Walker Jr. said Mrs. James MacGirvin collapsed about 11:30 a.m. at the Harting's grocery store where Huddleston works as meat manager.

Huddleston, who has taken cardio-pulmonary resuscitation training because of his fire department membership, twice revived Mrs. MacGirvin with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, Walker said.

Walker said he was told Mrs. MacGirvin appeared lifeless when Huddleston first reached her.

The Hartford fire department ambulance took Mrs. MacGirvin, of 37 Beachwood Trails, Hartford, to Watervliet Community hospital.

She was reported in good condition at the hospital this morning.

Huddleston, besides being a member of the fire department, is also a member of the Hartford city council.

He and his wife Betty have four children and live at 326 North Center street in Hartford.

It is the second time in about three months that Huddleston has had a life in his hands.

About three months ago, he and two other fire department members, Pete Sinclair and Larry Anchor, delivered a baby enroute to the hospital.

Robbery Suspects Nabbed By Alert State Trooper

KALAMAZOO — A state police trooper stationed at the New Buffalo post captured two men wanted in connection with a Saginaw robbery yesterday after firing two shots during a high speed chase in Kalamazoo county.

Trooper DeWayne Hellenka eventually rammed the fleeing auto with his police cruiser in the parking lot of Loy Norrix high school in Kalamazoo, according to state police at the Paw Paw post.

Police said Hellenka and the occupants of the car he had pursued were not injured.

Hellenka was on his way to Lansing to exchange police cruisers when the chase began, police said.

Police said Hellenka was east of Kalamazoo on I-94 when he heard a state police radio message describing the auto used by two suspects believed involved in a Saginaw robbery.

The trooper spotted a car matching the description headed west on the interstate, crossed the median strip and gave chase shortly before 11 a.m. yesterday, according to Paw Paw state police.

Police said he fired a shot at the auto after it stopped at the Sprinkle road interchange but sped away when Hellenka got out of his cruiser.

Hellenka again gave chase and followed the auto when it exited at the Portage road interchange in Kalamazoo, police said. He fired a second shot when the auto pulled into the Loy Norrix high school parking lot and then rammed the auto, police reported.

Police said the driver of the car, Johnny Hunter, 17, of Milwaukee, Wis., was arrested on charges of armed robbery and unlawfully driving away an automobile. The passenger, a 14-year-old Saginaw boy, was also held, police said.

Police said the two were wanted in connection with an armed robbery and auto theft in the Saginaw area, details of which were not available to Paw Paw state police this morning.

Couple Must Repay $1,066

A husband and wife charged with misdemeanor welfare fraud were sentenced Friday in Berrien fifth District court to repay a total of $1,066.50.

Sentenced were Benjamin and Myrtle Sayre, 33 and 37, of Route 2, Watervliet. They previously pleaded guilty to the misdemeanor fraud charges involving less than $500. Charges of fraud over $500 were dismissed. That charge is a felony.

According to the prosecutor's welfare fraud unit the couple received more than $1,000 in overpaid ADC funds because they failed to report additional income.

Besides making restitution each was placed on probation for two years. The fraud occurred between June and October of 1974.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Michigan Court Ducks The Hairy Issue

Until the First Amendment and nine others denominated as the Bill of Rights were adopted in 1789, the U.S. and its colonial predecessors experienced no difficulty in proscribing obscenity.

Colonial ordinances banning obscene and blasphemous statements and publications were accorded rigorous enforcement.

So were, actually their subsequent statutory modifications in most states, until in recent times the U.S. Supreme Court undertook to define what is acceptable and what is beyond the pale.

Stated simplistically, what is the difference between a recognized classic such as Michelangelo's sculpture of a naked David and a full front photograph of Bert Reynolds in a magazine's centerfold?

The total liberal would say none whatever; that beauty is in the eye of the beholder.

Most Americans, however, still believe Bert in the buff is something to be looked at in the men's room, not flashed on a movie or TV screen or distributed through the mails.

By 1973, following 1957 and 1966 wrappings with the argument, the Court felt it had refined workable guidelines defining what is legitimate expression and what is offensive beyond any shadow of doubt.

The work (movie, publication, etc.) can be suppressed if (1) it lacks serious literary, artistic, political or scientific value, (ii) and if it appeals to a prurient interest in sex, and (iii) if it is patently offensive under contemporary community standards.

The Court developed the third qualification in response to fact situation ignored or rejected in prior test cases. Ideas on what is artistic as against plan vulgarity differ in New York City and in Dogpatch, Georgia.

While giving an accord to local standards, the Court, did not, as many local officials assume, abandon the first two requirements.

Shortly following the 1973 pronouncement, the Court overturned a Georgia censoring of the movie, "Carnal Knowledge," as violative of its artistic standard (rule i). Only recently it ducked a full determination of the raunchy musical, "Hair." The Chattanooga police board banned the show outright. The Court declared this was faulty because the city ordinance deprived the producer of a prompt judicial review.

The 1973 opinion, a 5-4 vote really, hints a further qualification might be in order. Somebody supplying heady material to adults who desire it might be treated more leniently than a person sending it to kids or adults who do not wish it.

The Michigan Supreme Court ruled a few days ago on one such dirty book situation.

The Grand Rapids police nailed a dirty bookstore operator for selling hot stuff to the walk-in trade. The lower courts convicted him for violating the state's obscenity statutes.

The Lansing bench reversed the conviction by the same hair-splitting which has characterized U.S. Supreme Court's wrestling with the subject.

In a split decision, the State Supreme Court declared the legislative definition of obscenity for children or non-consenting adults is clear enough. It is foggy, and therefore unenforceable, as against the consenting adult.

The decision's effect will keep the dirty bookstore running until the legislature tries its hand at rewriting the present statute. The same holds for the X and R rated movies.

Another alternative would be an attempt to get the Lansing court to change its mind or for the Supreme Court to take another stab at the question.

The obscenity statutes have sound purpose behind them.

The difficulty is finding an objective definition of a completely subjective proposition.

The late Justice John Harlan once described it as "the intractable obscenity problem."

Once Upon A Time, Those Postmarks Told Something

Ever since the Postal Service began tapering with the postmark it places on letter mail, the information contained in that little circle has become more confusing. First to be eliminated years ago was the time designation. Actually, postal service once was that precise!

Then it was the name of the town in which the letter was mailed which began to disappear, to be replaced by the zip code. It used to be fun to guess who was writing from Tucumcari, but who cares who lives in 15062?

Then came the two-digit state abbreviation. Ever since people have been trying to figure out whether AL is Alaska or Alabama, AR is Arkansas or Arizona, MI designates Mississippi, Michigan or Minnesota, etc.

Booby Trap Bomb Finally Explains It All

Most Americans admit to harboring a certain lack of understanding of what the trouble in Northern Ireland is all about.

Despite looking into Irish history and examining the sources of the centuries' old conflict between Catholics and Protestants, it's still difficult to place blame or choose sides or figure out the ought-to-be and the ought-not-to-be of it all.

Now, thanks to a booby trap bomb that blew up in the face of the 10-year-old son of a bar owner in Belfast — blinding him and tearing off an arm, as well as causing severe facial injuries to two of his brothers, 8 and 9 — all is crystal clear.

There have been plenty of bombings, shootings, murders, maimings and disfigurements in Northern Ireland over the past several years, but somehow none of these atrocities spoke with the force of this one.

What a brilliant concept to plant a bomb in a transistor radio. What daring to leave it in a public place where anyone might pick it up. What a masterstroke for the side that devised it, whether Catholic or Protestant — and does it matter, for what is more irrefutable than the logic of exploding gunpowder salted with nails, besides which the reasoned arguments of the politicians and peacemakers conciliators are exposed in all their futility.

To kill, to destroy, to diminish, to establish Hell on God's good earth seems to be all that matters now in Northern Ireland.

EDITOR'S MAILBAG

WANTS TO SET RECORD STRAIGHT

Your editorial in the April 28 Herald-Palladium was most enlightening. I am very happy that you read the financial journals and keep yourself up to date.

However, I would like to take exception to the second paragraph which reads as follows:

"Take out a $10,000 Ordinary Life Contract and be able to borrow up to $8,000 against it at 5 or 6% is a reminder that any salesman worth his salt tosses at a prospect."

At the beginning of the second paragraph you stated:

"No pun intended." Well, this is where I take exception. If one of our agents ever told a policyholder that if he took out a $10,000 ordinary life policy he would be able to borrow $8,000 against it at 5 or 6%, he would have to qualify that statement by saying,

"when the insured is at age 65 and he purchased the policy at age 35." Any agent in our agency who would not qualify that statement, would not have a contract to sell insurance.

We believe that no one should sell insurance to an individual on the pretense that he is going to get rich on the policy by using the policy reserves or cash value to hedge on the economic climate of today. The primary purpose of life insurance is to benefit the beneficiary, not the insured. I will have to agree that there is a hedge or a forced savings, as some people might call it, but those are secondary reasons for the purchase of insurance.

Borrowing your cash value disrupts your insurance program, unless you buy an inexpensive term policy to cover the amount of money borrowed from the reserves, your insurance program in many ways will fall short of the needed protection for your family. Now,

If you buy a term policy to offset the amount of money you are borrowing, and pay the company the amount of interest necessary to borrow the money, you really haven't made much of a gain for all the bother and time to complete the transaction.

In fact it would be less expensive for a person who wanted to invest his money, to buy just pure protection in the form of term insurance. In the industry we call this "Buy Term And Invest The Rest." This is not to say that over the long haul still the most inexpensive policy that can be purchased is ordinary life, if it is purchased for its intended purpose.

I had to set the record straight for I would hate to see all of our policyholders who have purchased $10,000 of ordinary life come to our doors and ask to borrow $8,000. Boy, would we have egg on our face.

Secondly, your editorial mentioned Earl Clark, Chairman of Occidental Life of California. As our agency represents Occidental Life and we know Earl Clark personally, it immediately made the editorial more interesting to us. In fact, I believe I will send a copy of the editorial to Mr. Clark as I think he will find it interesting.

Secrecy Got Us Into Trouble

WASHINGTON — There is no mystery about the current rash of catastrophic collapses in American foreign and military policy.

They are the result of secret agreements secretly arrived at. Contrary to American principles and custom, the public, which in the end must give support or withhold it, has been kept in the dark.

But the public is not alone in being asked to back programs in which it has had no voice and little knowledge. The same applies to the Senate, House of Representatives and to high cabinet officials.

Foreign policy has been kept hidden from ranking members of the State Department and from ambassadors negotiating treaties. Major military decisions have been acted on without the knowledge or concurrence of senior members of the Department of Defense — civilian and military.

Some very important decisions were taken without the knowledge of the President of the United States. In other cases, the President was informed too late to modify or veto the actions.

This secrecy did not begin with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, although he has refined the technique. It was prevalent in the time of Presidents Johnson and Kennedy.

At a recent meeting, I heard the State Department official responsible for a key area of the world confess he did not know what agreements and what commitments Kissinger had made for his region. He did not expect to be told. His advice was seldom asked.

To this day, I have not found one State Department official who knows what secret promises Kissinger has made to Soviet boss Brezhnev. Or what he has committed the U.S. to do for Sadat of Egypt — or for Israel.

Neither President Johnson nor his aides ever told Congress or the American citizenry step by step along the way what we were doing in Vietnam, how much it would cost or why it was worth the sacrifices our citizens were being asked to make. There were only glowing stories of our accomplishments and flag waving, idealized statements.

As one who strongly believed South Vietnam deserved help, I feel this help was given in the wrong way. This happened, I think, because there was no detailed debate on Vietnam until it became clear things were going dreadfully wrong. Even then, most of the debate was based on wrong premises, because Presidents Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon kept much of what they knew hidden.

The problem, of course, is not limited to Vietnam. It applies to our policies in the Middle East, Western Europe, the Soviet Union, China, Thailand, India, Japan, Pakistan and Africa.

What are our aims in these lands? What are we doing and what are we planning? What are we promising? What will we do when the chips are down? We have vague statements. We do not know the concrete facts.

Rational decisions come from public debate.

Irrational decisions come from secrecy. No man and no small group is able in a closet to consider all important consequences of major national actions. Each man looks at decisions from his own experience. Only through hearing all points of view can hidden benefits and disasters in any policy be anticipated and the best course of action decided.

Is Cold War Really Over?

Though the assumption is widespread that the Cold War is over, critics of detente for some time now have been pointing out in analytic terms the contradictions that lie at the heart of that policy. Now, in President Ford's verbal response to the Vietnam disaster, those contradictions are out in the open for all to see.

Analytically, the contradiction in detente can be stated briefly. Detente theory envisions a situation in which on the super power level there will be a "relaxation" (the literal translation of "detente"), while at a lower level intense rivalry may continue to take place. As in Vietnam, Portugal, Chile, and elsewhere.

Such a policy might, conceivably, be carried out by an authoritarian regime. The foreign minister of such a regime might visit Moscow, shake hands, exchange toasts, conclude trade agreements, and arrange for the exchange of works of art. At the same time, on a lower level, the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the intelligence agencies would be conducting the most ruthless operations against Moscow's clients, just as Moscow would be doing against the regime's.

But that is not the world we actually live in. For a democracy like ours, detente contains a political if not a logical contradiction. Thus, the question has been widely asked: If we can have good relations with Communists in Moscow and Peking, why can't we have "good relations" with Communists in Hanoi, Havana and anywhere else?

There are good answers to that question. Such answers involve the maintenance of the balance of power in the world. The "good relations" with Peking and Moscow depend precisely on that balance of power.

But, answers of that kind, I reluctantly conclude, are untranslatable into the idiom of a popular democracy like our own. To public opinion, it does not "make sense" to be smiling at Brezhnev and Mao, and blasting the daylight out of their lesser clients.

The incongruity at the heart of detente became glaring in the President's statement on Vietnam. On the one hand, Mr. Ford, correctly, tried to place some of the blame for the debacle on Congress. On the other, he tried to excuse the Soviets and the Chinese: "I don't think we can blame the Soviet Union and the People's Republic of China for supplying North Vietnam."

Rhetorically, the President's statement self-destructs. Congress could well reply that at least it, Congress, did not "supply North Vietnam."

In the more arcane, and academic reaches of detente theory, the President's position might be defensible. We did, after all, have the option of supplying the South to the point where it was invulnerable. But democratic common sense is likely to ask: Why in the world can't we blame the Soviets and the Chinese? Those are the two countries, after all, that made the North Vietnamese offensive a virtual certainty.

Detente theory does have a certain intellectual elegance. But under the democratic conditions we actually live in, its principal effort has been to disarm public opinion psychologically.

Smashing Forward Under detente, Soviet-supplied forces are smashing forward in Southeast Asia. Thailand appears to be the netlike Philippines and Indonesia are responding to the shock waves.

In Europe, one of our allies is on the brink, despite the setback the leftists suffered in the recent elections.

Rep. Gast Predicts Passage Of Land Use Bill

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

State Rep. Harry Gast, Jr., of Lincoln township, last night told the Berrien county planning commission he believes a land use bill will be passed by the state legislature sometime this year.

Gast, speaking to commissioners about land use in general and House Bill 4234 specifically, felt a land use bill, either 4234 or one similar to it, would be passed in the fall.

The bill which Gast discussed would essentially create a seven-member land use commission appointed by the governor to compile a land use plan for the state. The plan would include descriptions of existing land uses and future land use issues; designations of critical land areas; establishment of goals, objectives, and policies for various kinds of land (agriculture, public, intensive growth areas); and recommended programs to implement plans.

As the bill is now written, the land use commission would be an autonomous commission with rule-making powers, and would be the final authority, with the exception of the courts, regarding any appeals or rulings.

"We're getting close to a document I can support," Gast told planning commissioners, but noted: "I feel it (the bill) must and can be improved to be a good, comprehensive bill. Before we adopt a plan let's make sure it's a good plan."

Gast, while generally agreeing with what the bill would do, said he has been critical of a number of points in it — especially those involving agricultural areas.

He said his main criticism of the bill was that the bill's writers didn't involve people with expertise in rural areas to study those phases, such as representatives from the state department of agriculture and the soil conservation service.

"Land owners haven't been represented," Gast noted, and added: "We need an inventory of degrees and types of agricultural land and open-space land." Gast stated that both the soil conservation service and agriculture department had some 4,000 pamphlets printed noting some points, which coincide with Gast's opinions, on what the bill still needed to make it a good comprehensive bill for the state.

However, only five of the brochures were distributed, he said, adding the distribution was stopped by either Gov. William Milliken or an aide to Milliken.

Gast felt the latter was probably responsible, but said he expected to find out who stopped the distribution and why within the week.

He also explained that the main thrust of Bill 4234 is that local governmental units make determinations regarding land use "and then it filters up" to the state level.

Other points contained in the bill include a review of the plan every two years, and a commission review and approval (or denial) of all state agency planning and developments, as well as major developments of public utilities.

Bicentennial Seal Picked For Berrien

Jack Claeys, 18, of Fairplain, submitted the winning design in a recent contest sponsored by the Berrien County Bicentennial commission to pick its official seal.

Claeys' design, a circular emblem with the county's outline and four motifs field depicting significant aspects of the county, may appear on commemorative coins, booklets, etc., but cannot be used without consent of the commission.

Claeys, of 1636 Colfax, is a senior and second-year art student at Lake Michigan Catholic high school in St. Joseph. His prizes include a trip to Canada to attend Canamer games, a set of three Michigan Bicentennial coins and tickets for his family to attend the 1976 Berrien county bicentennial pageant.

Second prize-winner was Walter Nelson of Bridgman high school, and third went to Gary Jurgensen of Three Oaks, a River Valley high school student.

Honorable mentions went to Ken Gorske of Bridgman high school; Bill Dinges and Rick Beels, both of River Valley high school.

Second and third-place prizes were bicentennial coins and tickets to the 1976 county pageant. Honorable mentions and all others who entered the contest received tickets to the pageant.

The contest was originated by Mrs. Betty Valentieus of New Buffalo and Mrs. Mary Lagoni of Bridgman, co-chairmen of the bicentennial school committee.

The contest was open to all junior and senior high school art students in the county.

Claeys' winning design includes an outline of Berrien county surrounded by four motifs depicting significant aspects of the county — winter sports, fishing, fruit growing, and industry — all within a circular border carrying the words, "Bicentennial American Revolution, 1776-1976."

Two Men File For Single St. Joseph Board Seat

William I. Glines, incumbent, and Dr. Joseph B. Naines Jr. have filed nominating petitions for the one St. Joseph board of education seat to be filled June 9 for a four-year term.

Deadline for filing nominating petitions is 4 p.m. Monday, May 12. School officials said two other petition blanks have been requested but they do not know for whom.

Glines, of 1210 Orchard Lane, St. Joseph, serves as the board treasurer. He is a salesmen for Michigan Bearing Co. with offices in Benton Harbor.

Glines and his wife, Phyllis, have three children, Mike, Melissa and Marc.

Dr. Naines of 314 Murphy court, St. Joseph, was born in Chicago and came to the Twin Cities in 1965. He is employed by Whirlpool as an economist. He has degrees in electrical engineering and economics including a doctorate awarded in June, 1965, from Northwestern university.

Dr. Naines ran third in a four-man race for two board seats in 1973 when John Pielemeier and Mrs. Beverly Linn were elected.

Dr. Naines and his wife, Angelajo, have two daughters, Monica and Maribeth.

The school board has seven members. Glines won his seat in an election four years ago and is trying for a second full four-year term.

Kept Peace

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The United States can claim credit for world peace, says Sen. Bob Dole.

"If the world, by and large, is at peace today — and it is — it is because of America," the Kansas Republican told the North Carolina Federation of Republican Women.

Survey Team To Resume Berrien Soil Map Project

Three men will walk virtually every foot of Lincoln township this month as they begin the second year of a five-year program to map all the soils of Berrien county.

Jerry Larson, party leader of the Berrien county soil survey, and two assistants mapped Hagar, Coloma, Watervliet and Royalltown townships last year. This summer they hope to complete Lincoln, Lake, Baroda and Oronoko townships.

The result of each township survey is a map which shows soil types, topography, kinds of vegetation and crop locations.

Larson says that he and the team members will try to notify landowners before entering their property. However, from last year's experience he knows that not everybody will be contacted.

He added that lawns won't be bored to take a soil sample without permission of the homeowner.

The survey is sponsored by both the Berrien County Planning commission and the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, Larson said.

Good Fellows Enriched By Paper's Name Change

Spring is here, and hot summer weather is just ahead. But Santa's Good Fellows don't need ice and snow to spur them on. They work the year around to assure that everyone, the poor as well as the more favored, will have a truly "Merry Christmas 1975."

Both the Benton Harbor and St. Joseph-Lakeshore Good Fellow funds got a whopping boost this week from Niebert-Neddu Marketing Services, a Benton Harbor advertising agency.

Vice-President Thomas J. Mathieu sent his company's check for $147.16 to each fund.

That amount happens to be just half of the $294.32 that the firm charged for services of its artists who produced "The Herald-Palladium" logotype that appears at the top of the this page and the section front pages of this newspaper.

The Herald-Palladium has been the name since Feb. 3 of this year when it was merged from the former St. Joseph Herald-Press and Benton Harbor News-Palladium.

Siebert-Neddu, famed nationwide for the skill of its commercial artists, drafted several alternatives names and type faces for the merged newspaper. The Herald-Palladium in Old English type face won the nod.

Vice President Mathieu noted only one thing in his brief letter of transmittal for the checks: "These total the exact amount billed to you for The Herald-Palladium masthead."

He didn't say why his firm decided to make the gifts. But the self-evident Christmas spirit really doesn't need any explaining.

This newspaper is custodian for both Good Fellow funds. Not one cent has ever been charged either fund for administration expense. One hundred per cent of donations go for direct aid to those in need.

Be Aware Of Old 'Stray Dog' Law

You don't have to own and love a dog to be responsible for its actions, according to Al Kuiper, chief animal control officer (dog warden) for Berrien county. Kuiper says that according to a 1918 Michigan law a person is responsible for the actions of a stray dog if that dog has been harbored and fed by a person over a 24-hour period. This newspaper was advised of the old law yesterday by Robert Hickman, owner of Rob's Snappy Service, 325 West Main street, Benton Harbor. Hickman learned of the regulation after talking to the dog warden about the experiences of an acquaintance. Warden Kuiper said that if a person keeps a stray dog for over 24 hours that person can be ticketed for various violations in connection with the dog, such as dog running at large.

Church Plans Educational Unit

PROPOSED SISTER LAKES COMMUNITY CHURCH EDUCATIONAL UNIT

SISTER LAKES — The congregation of Sister Lakes Community church plans to begin construction early this summer of an estimated $165,000 educational unit.

The facility is expected to be completed next fall, according to the Rev. Harry Johnson, pastor of the church and publicity chairman of the project.

The 5,000 square foot building, which will be located on the east side of the church, will house six multi-purpose rooms and library and be joined to the main building by an administrative center, which will include an office and study, to form a U-shape.

Plans for the single-story structure also include an optional basement.

The present facility houses 8,000 square feet.

A current total of $34,485 has been pledged by members over the next five years. Donated labor is also expected to reduce the cost.

Members of the building committee include Dale Rose, chairman, George Cuthbert, Mrs. Harry Johnson, Ed Newell, Mrs. Harry Carlisle, Jerry Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. Allyn Anthony.

A kick-off banquet was held April 14 to launch the "Forward in Faith" campaign.

Speakers were Paul Chase Jr. and George Badger of Paul Chase Associates, Morro Lake, N.H.

Plan Anniversary Events

Salvation Army

The 50th anniversary of the establishment of the Salvation Army in Benton Harbor will be celebrated with special activities Saturday, May 10, and Sunday, May 11.

The celebration will begin with a 50th anniversary banquet Saturday, May 10, at Upton Junior high school, St. Joseph, at 5:30 p.m. This banquet will be followed by a Festival of Music and Song in the school auditorium by the Sault Ste. Marie Citadel Band at 7:30 p.m.

Guest speaker for the Sunday, May 11, services at the Citadel in Benton Harbor will be Colonel George Nelting, Chief Secretary for the Central Territory and second in command for the Salvation Army's vast religious and humanitarian work in the 11 Midwest states. He has been an officer in the Salvation Army for 33 years.

Leading the 11 a.m. service will be Brigadier William Roberts, Divisional Commander of the Western Michigan-Northern Indiana Division.

The Sault Ste. Marie Canada band will provide music for the service.

At 2:30 p.m., a Festival of Praise will be held at the Citadel.

The Sault Ste. Marie Citadel Band is the result of the amalgamation of the Spring-Street and Steelton Corps which took place in July of 1970.

Bandmaster William Towers was leader of the Steelton band since 1938 and assumed leadership of the present band at the amalgamation.

William Booth, the founder of the Salvation Army, began his ministry and missions among the people of London's East End in 1865. Soon the movement spread to other areas and countries and 60 years later in February of 1925, the congregation of the Good Samaritan church introduced Salvation Army Captain Cecil Metz to the Twin City area.

Three months later, Captain and Mrs. Laurence Turrel officially established a meeting place at 230 Territorial road and the Salvation Army was established in Benton Harbor in May of 1925.

Soon this rented store-room became crowded with people and busy with the Salvation Army's work.

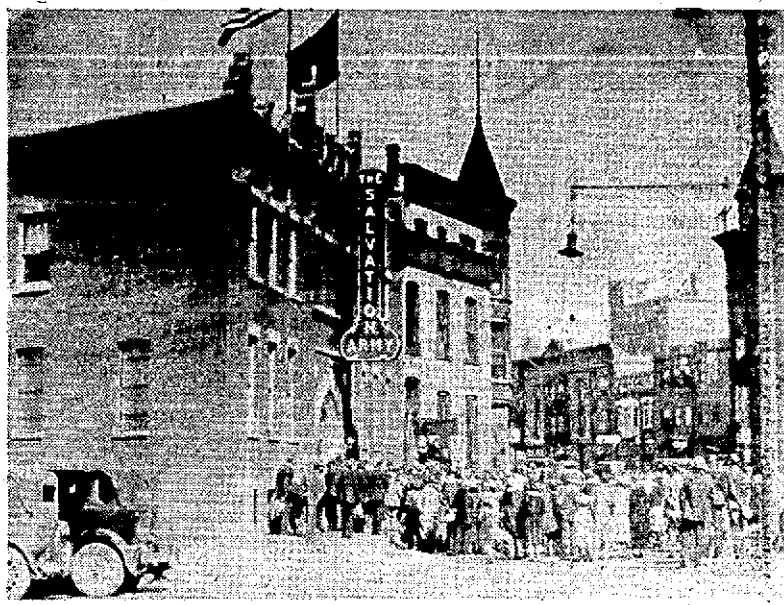

Under the leadership of Captain and Mrs. Archie Bowers, who came to Benton Harbor in June of 1926, a fund raising campaign was started to provide a more permanent structure to house the Salvation Army's operations.

With the help of soldiers (members of the Salvation Army), civic leaders and interested people of the community, over $50,000 was pledged to build and furnish the new Citadel. The cornerstone of the present structure at 91 Hinkley was laid Oct. 13, 1928, and the building was completed and dedicated May 5, 1929.

During the early 1930's, it was decided that an Outpost could help serve the outlying area and for 10 years, a branch of the Salvation Army existed in the Hull school area.

In 1934, the Salvation Army built a gymnasium which has served as a place of recreation for many people of the twin city area.

In 1966, Auto Specialties Manufacturing company of St.

DEDICATION: The Salvation Army Citadel at 91 Hinkley, Benton Harbor, was dedicated May 5, 1929. The Benton Harbor Citadel Corps will celebrate the 50th anniversary of the establishment of the Salvation Army in Benton Harbor with special events Saturday, May 10 and Sunday, May 11.

Joseph, donated a building at 886 Territorial, Benton Harbor, which is used as a clothing distribution center. Food and lodging for needy men who come for help are also provided there.

According to Captain Donald L. Lenz, who has been the leader of the Benton Harbor Citadel Corps since 1972, The Salvation Army has served the people of the twin city area during the past 50 years through the leadership of many fine Salvation Army officers, the guidance of good community leaders serving the Army on the Advisory board and the service of the soldiers and generous help of the many friends of the army.

In 1975, the golden anniversary year, Captain Lenz says, the Salvation Army is still engaged in "spiritual warfare" as in the days of its founding "with heart to God and hand to man."

Christian services are conducted at the Citadel each Sunday morning and evening. Monday, the Boys' club with an average of 35 boys, has such activities as basketball, ping pong, pool, model car and airplane construction. The Girl Guard and Sunbeam program for girls ages six to 18 provide learning in skills important to a woman today.

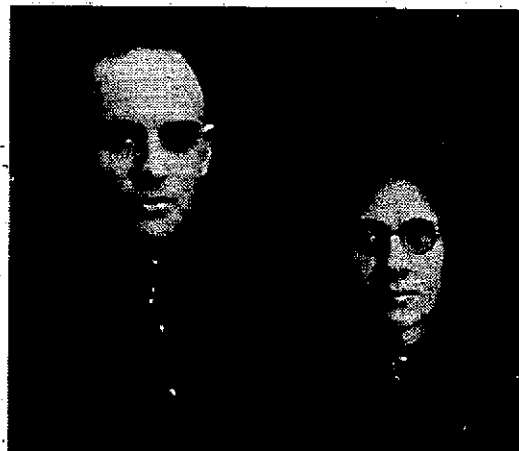

Every Tuesday afternoon women come to Home League for meetings geared to worship, education, fellowship and service. On Tuesday nights, classes are held for young people to learn brass instruments and the vocal and brass groups practice. The Corps Cadets meet Wednesdays and the midweek services are held on Wednesdays. The last Thursday of each month, the Pioneer Golden Agers club meets to offer fellowship to senior citizens.

Captain Lenz says the Salvation Army's doors are open each week day to people who need assistance of council. At other times, emergency help is available by using the Salvation Army extension telephone number.

During the past year, 35,807 people were assisted through the Salvation Army's programs.

According to Captain Lenz, the Salvation Army still serves coffee to firemen on icy windy nights, arranges for runaway teens to go back home, provides lodging for destitute men and gives food certificates to families at Christmas.

To Conduct Clinic

Gary Lumpkin of Springfield, Mo., a specialist in estate planning, will be in Benton Harbor to conduct a "Keys to Tomorrow Planning Clinic" Monday and Tuesday, May 5 and 6.

The clinic, a series of estate planning and wills emphasis workshops, will be held at First Assembly of God, 690 Nickerson, Benton Harbor, at 7 p.m.

Lumpkin, a regional stewardship consultant for the Assemblies of God department of stewardship, will present a series of discussions on estate planning and family budgeting. The primary emphasis will be on the making of last wills and testament.

Individual counseling in this area will be provided upon advance notice to the Rev. Raymond Rueb, pastor of the church.

"Unexpected Journey," a color film illustrating the importance of sound financial family planning, is to be shown during the clinic. The presentation shows how a properly organized and planned estate prevents certain complex problems that could otherwise trouble a family at the breadwinner's demise.

Illustrations and explanations given during the clinic will show how an individual may avoid paying unnecessary taxes by making provision in his or her will for the local church and for denominational ministries. Investment programs suitable for persons with varying levels of income will also be discussed.

Lumpkin, a member of the

GARY LUMPKIN

Christian Legal Society, the American Bar association and the Oklahoma Bar association, earned his Juris Doctorate from the University of Oklahoma School of Law. He has also received advanced training in estate planning and specialized in this area as it relates to Christian stewardship.

Lumpkin assists with the stewardship department's programs in various areas of money management, estate planning and investments. In addition to "Keys to Tomorrow Planning Clinics" across the central region of the country, he responds to requests from individuals for assistance in estate planning for the Christian.

THE BIBLE

185. Jehu Becomes King

Elisha called one of the young prophets to him and ordered him to go to Ramoth-gilead and to take Jehu aside privately in order to pour over his head the oil of anointing. Then the young prophet was to tell Jehu that the Lord had anointed him king of Israel. When this was done, the young prophet was to flee.

When the young prophet had drawn Jehu aside, he poured the oil over his head and said, "Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, I have anointed thee king over the people of the Lord, even over Israel. And thou shalt smite the house of Ahab thy master, that I may avenge the blood of my servants the prophets, and the blood of all the servants of the Lord, at the hand of Jezebel. For the whole house of Ahab shall perish; and the dogs shall eat Jezebel in the portion of Jezreel; and there shall be none to bury her." (II Kings 9:6-10)

After the young prophet fled, Jehu told his friends what had transpired. They quickly made a carpet of their coats for the bare steps and blew a trumpet, and proclaimed Jehu their king.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Adoption Misunderstood

Dear Ann Landers: You can't imagine how tactless and insensitive people can be until you adopt a child. Please publish my letter so some of those ignoramuses can see themselves in print.

My husband and I were fortunate enough to adopt a baby girl at birth. I recently learned the wonderful news that I am pregnant. Every day someone says to me, "How marvelous that you will now have a child of your own!"

Don't they realize we 'ALREADY' have a "child of our own"? The fact that our little girl is not of our flesh and blood doesn't make her any less ours. We are happily awaiting the arrival of our SECOND child, not our first. Thank you for allowing me to express my feelings. — Doubly Blessed.

Dear Blessed: Please try to understand these people mean no harm. They are just thoughtless. I do thank you for writing, however, and I'm sure your letter has helped educate many people today.

Bad Manners

Dear Ann Landers: I am a middle-aged woman who is engaged to marry a very fine man. Harold has a son and daughter-in-law to whom he is devoted. (His wife passed away two years ago.)

The four of us went to dinner Sunday and the young couple displayed the most atrocious table manners I've ever seen. They talked with food in their mouths, reached across the table for everything and licked their fingers. I said nothing but believe me, I was nauseated.

Last night I decided to tell Harold exactly how I felt. I was shocked that he defended them and made me out to be a very picky person. I said nothing but his attitude made me furious. How can I overcome my revulsion? I'm sure the four of us will be dining together frequently after we are married. — Sensitive Stomach.

Dear S.S.: There's something more basic here than table manners, and I hope you wise up before you have a serious run-in with Harold.

Accept the fact that he doesn't care to hear any criticism about his children. If they are old enough to be married, their behavioral patterns are fairly well set. So keep your "views" to yourself and look the other way.

Poor English

Dear Ann Landers: We've come to think of you as a friend of the family. Our teenage daughters are a delight. We owe you a vote of thanks for helping them form good values.

One daughter is a college freshman. For years I've been concerned about her atrocious grammar. I've corrected her tactfully, jokingly, not-so-jokingly and heart-to-heart. No improvement. I'm worried she will be shunned by intelligent people.

After reading your advice to the mother-in-law whose son's wife was reaching for the butter and spreading it on everything in sight, I decided you were right — it wasn't important enough to damage a relationship. Does the same apply here?

Is her horrible grammar go-

ing to be a serious problem or am I looking at life through 50-year-old eyes? I've adjusted to mini-skirts and dungarees but every time I hear, "Me and Jane was walkin' through the park" I shudder. — Worried

Dear Worried: A daughter is not a daughter-in-law. Suggest special tutoring, or a crash course in grammar. Some graduate student in English could use the money and your daughter could use the help.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism - Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

FOR SUNDAY

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll have a few minor frustrations to contend with today. They won't amount to a hill of beans — if you treat them philosophically.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A situation will arise where it may cost you a little cash up front before you see a return. Later, the profit should be there.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be sure your goals are in harmony with your friends. If not, make some adjustments so no one feels left out.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You have a tendency today to anticipate the outcome of events negatively. Fortunately, you'll be wrong on the important issues.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'd be wise not to talk too much at this time to a friend who is not involved in a venture you share with someone else.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) In any hargaining you do today, let the other party do most of the selling. You'll get better terms.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't base major decisions today upon partial or hearsay information. Root out all the facts firsthand.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23) If you have any dealings of importance, you'll fare better toward late afternoon than in the early part of the day.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Lady Luck is trying to get to you either through a member of your family or a family contact. Don't shut her out.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Erase from your mind petty little worries relating to your work — they can be attended to later in the week. Relax. Let go.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A chance remark by a friend will trigger your imagination. A profitable idea will result. Do something with it.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Though you will get off on the wrong foot today, things will work out when the final results are tallied.

Your Birthday
May 4, 1973

Friends will play an important role in your affairs this year. Two of them in particular, will be very active pulling strings from behind the scenes to help make your lot easier.

FOR MONDAY

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Things are working for your benefit today in a rather mysterious way. Let those you're closely associated with do the spadework.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're a bit reluctant to impose upon a friend to help advance a personal interest. Don't be. This person will be glad to help.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Something important you're eager to achieve can be accomplished now if you'll exert the effort. Delay will lessen your chances.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll have more success today dealing directly with the top man than with subordinates. Don't go through intermediaries.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you hold firm to what you expect from a business arrangement you should be able to get the gains you hope for. Be patient.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be alert or you may be taken advantage of in a small, annoying way. However, chances are you'll spot and correct it in time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This should be a profitable, productive time for you. Constructive seeds you've sown are about to be harvested.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23) You're very capable at managing things today — with the exception of your checkbook. Don't cater to an expensive whim!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A good day for that serious discussion with your mate you've been putting off about some changes around the house.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll discover that a plan you've been dubious about will work out fine when you put it to the test today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your material prospects look very encouraging, especially through involvements you have with persons such as profited you previously.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your best results will come now if you don't circumvent issues. If you have a point to make, hammer it home.

Your Birthday
May 5, 1973

You'll find a new and profitable twist in your quest for something from the past that never brought you rewards before. An old acquaintance will be involved.

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Most players would go down at four spades. The combination of the 4-1 trump break and losing diamond finesse will prove too much for them. Most experts would make the hand in spite of those bad breaks.

There is a book line of play available. The second club is ruffed, the queen of trumps is cashed followed by a low trump to dummy's 10. Then, since trumps have broken 4-1, the eight of diamonds is led for a finesse. It loses and a third club is led. If South ruffs he will go down, but South simply discards a low heart.

Now he can ruff a fourth club in dummy, preserve trump control and make his contract.

Note that the heart he discarded was a loser anyway; South just elected to lose his trick when he wanted.

Simple, isn't it. Now how did our friend the unlucky expert go down on that very line of play?

When he led the eight of diamonds and let it ride, West played his four spot. The unlucky expert wasn't looking at the East-West cards. He repeated the diamond finesse. This time it lost.

A third club was led and South chucked that losing heart. Along came a fourth club. South ruffed in dummy, but East discarded his last diamond. South could not get to his hand to draw trumps!

Of course, South could have foiled this by playing just one round of trumps before attacking diamonds or he could have figured out what West was up to and dropped the king. But experts are not infallible.

Lawmaker Reintroduces His Strike Bill

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Blasting the Democratic-controlled legislature for moving too slowly, state Rep. Melvin Larsen, R-Oxford, has re-introduced his own version of legislation to deal with teacher strikes. The measure, which he introduced last year, would permit boards of education to accept or reject an arbitrator's proposed settlement. If the board accepted the settlement, it would be binding on teachers. The proposal was the focus of public hearings, but failed to get enough votes to get out of the Republican-controlled Senate Labor Committee last year. The proposal was immediately branded Friday as a "political ploy" by Gene Caesar, education consultant to House Speaker Bobby Crim, D-Davison.

"It lets boards bind teachers to an arbitrator's award, but it doesn't let teachers bind boards," said Caesar. "It's a one-sided arbitration bill."

Earlier this year, Larsen endorsed another school strike bill authored by state Rep. William R. Keith, D-Garden City. The Keith bill says either side can bind the other by accepting a proposed settlement.

Larsen said the main difficulty with the Keith bill is that it has been bottled up since February in the House Labor Committee, chaired by state Rep. Daisy Elliott, D-Detroit.

"If the Keith bill was reported out of committee it would pass the legislature," said Larsen, who vowed he would testify before the House Labor panel when his bill is sent there "as I'm sure it will be."

Both teachers and school officials were unhappy with the Keith bill, which resulted in a special advisory panel of labor negotiators from both sides being cloistered for a week in a Lansing motel to work out a proposed solution. Speaker Crim called for the two sides to get together, saying otherwise they would have to accept whatever the legislature gave them.

The plan would permit a limited right to strike, but provides for compulsory binding arbitration.

Larsen said Friday it appears the advisory panel's proposal places too much reliance on the court system to resolve disputes.

"In the Crestwood district, a court injunction ordered the teachers back to the classroom and they ignored it," said Larsen. "In Garden City, a court order ordered the teachers back to work and they ignored it and some of them went to jail."

"The point is they didn't get the kids back in the classroom and the kids' education going. What I'm saying is, if the legislature keeps dragging its feet, we're going to be into next fall and we're going to have a lot of teacher strikes if we don't work out a solution."

"My bill is very unpopular with the teachers," said Larsen. "But I think we also have to do something to halt prolonged teachers' strikes."

SUPERTREE: Dr. F. Thomas Ledig of New Haven, Conn., says he is within two years of perfecting a process for quick detection of fast-growing "super-trees," found occasionally in forests. Above, he displays one such pine seedling, right, alongside a normal one of the same species and age. His process records photosynthetic rate as an indicator of growth potential. Isolated "super-trees" will be crossbred to produce new trees that grow two or three times faster than today's, in some cases, he said. (AP Wirephoto)

Common Cause Delays Reform Petition Decision

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Common Cause of Michigan says it will wait at least until May 18 to decide whether to start a petition drive to get a political reform measure on the 1976 ballot.

On April 7, the "citizens' lobby" gave the legislature a month to draft a bill containing the reforms. Common Cause later extended that deadline.

Representatives of Common Cause and Republican and Democratic leaders from both chambers have bargained over the details of the reform package without reaching a final agreement.

Common Cause is readying a 64-page bill for lawmakers to consider, while legislative aides are pounding together their own proposal.

The legislative version may be in several bills, a concept which Common Cause opposes.

Susan Reimels, chairperson of Common Cause, said Friday the state organization would decide what path to take at its May 18 meeting, when it will "evaluate legislative action."

Archie Lewis, a House Republican aide, said his group may have something "within two or three weeks for the caucuses to discuss." He said it may be "impossible" to include all the provisions in one bill.

Common Cause is pressing for legislative passage of the package by mid-summer, in order to put the proposal in effect for the 1976 election. Otherwise, it has pledged to undertake a petition drive to place it on the 1976 ballot for a vote of the people.

Lewis said passage by midsummer is not out of the question. He acknowledged that lawmakers know they have a choice of enacting their own package of reforms or risking public approval of a much stricter set of rules.

The Common Cause package includes tighter campaign financing regulations, lobbyist disclosure, conflict of interest guidelines and formation of a political ethics commission.

BLM Accused Of Law Violation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bureau of Land Management violated both the law and a presidential order when it opened 450 million acres of federal land to unrestricted use by off-road recreational vehicles, a judge has ruled.

U.S. District Judge William B. Jones, in his verdict Friday, ordered the Interior Department agency to draw up regulations limiting the use of the vehicles, which include snowmobiles, dune buggies and motorcycles.

Milliken Names WMU Professor

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Dr. Gene S. Booker of Kalamazoo, a Western Michigan University professor of management, has been appointed to the state Investment Advisory Committee.

The appointment, subject to Senate confirmation, is for the remainder of a term expiring next December. Booker succeeds Willard J. Eiteman of Ann Arbor, who resigned.

Gov. William Milliken announced the appointment Friday.

Alabama Man Asks Examination

PAW PAW — John Henry Toodle, 20, Birmingham, Ala., demanded preliminary examination on a charge of armed robbery when arraigned yesterday in Van Buren Seventh district court.
The charge is from the Saturday night holdup by two men armed with a pistol of the Mat-tawan Sunoco station. Police said an attendant was struck several times over the head with the gun before the bandits fled with an estimated $120.
Toodle was among three men brought to southwestern Michigan Thursday after waiving extradition from Mansfield, Ohio. James E. Toodle, 18, and Gregory Austin, 22, both of Birmingham, Ala., were lodged in the Berrien county jail pending arraignment on charges of robbing Fredrick's Arco station, Coloma.
Van Buren Prosecutor Frank Willis said John Toodle is also being questioned in connection with that robbery. Both holdups took place within 30 minutes of each other, according to police.
John Toodle was lodged in the Van Buren jail in lieu of $20,000 bond. A preliminary examination was scheduled for May 14.

'Toilet Tax' Irks People In Africa

SIMONSTOWN, South Africa (AP) — Inflation has hit the residents of Simonstown in the form of a "toilet tax" increase. Residents have been told the "special service sewage" tax will go up from $35 a year to $52.50 for the privilege of having a toilet in the house.

The new tax is to help pay off the costs of a new sewer system but homeowners are not amused by what some call Simonstown's "water closet crisis."

Construction Trend Sub-Par, Improving

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Contracting for new construction strengthened a bit in March, but even with this pickup the latest month's total was 15 per cent below last year's March value, it was reported Friday by the F.W. Dodge division of McGraw-Hill Information Systems company.

The company, source of construction statistics, produces Dodge Reports on construction activity and Sweet's Catalog Files of construction product information.

The March total of $6.5 billion in contracts for future construction work of all kinds lifted the seasonally-adjusted Dodge Index to 153 (1967=100). During January and February the Index sank to a four-year low of 135, and for the first quarter of this year averaged 141. The Dodge Index averaged 174 for the same quarter in 1974.

"While there is good reason to anticipate a general recovery in construction activity over the balance of 1975," commented George A. Christie, vice president and chief economist for F. W. Dodge, "March's spurt in the Dodge Index does not seem to be the sign that it is yet under way."

"The main difference between the badly depressed activity and February rates of contracting and March's higher value was mostly the start of two unusually large projects. Except for these, the general condition of the construction market could still only be described as weak and drifting sideways."

The two projects were an electric generating facility in West Virginia and a chemical plant in Louisiana.

'Law By Ordeal' Merits Thought

By PATRICK CONNOLLY
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Occasionally in state government, one good idea breeds another. The Democratic brainstorm a week ago to lock teacher and school board lobbyists in a motel room until they wrung out a school strike compromise prompted some spinoff proposals.

The offshoot ideas for legislation-by-ordeal were made in jest by Senate Majority Leader William Fitzgerald, D-Detroit, and former House Speaker William Ryan, D-Detroit, over coffee. But they contain the seeds of inspiration that sometimes save the day when all else fails.

Maybe, Fitzgerald suggested, the legislature should keep school lobbyists on bread and water until they write satisfactory bills to solve the state's medical malpractice insurance problem. In a room nearby, doctors and lawyers could be under lock and key until they come up with school strike legislation.

Or, Fitzgerald and Ryan quipped, doctors and lawyers could be locked in the same room until they drafted medical malpractice insurance proposals. A doctor would be stationed nearby in case of an emergency and a lawyer would be with him to handle the malpractice suit that assuredly would arise.

The notion of doctors writing school strike proposals is fetching. The idea of disinterested lobbyists, faced with starvation and deprivation, drafting laws to crimp the style of other lobbyists has a charming, sadistic allure. Beverage dealers telling the legislature how truckers should stop spilling gravel all over highways; Teamsters saying how the state's morals should be shielded against topless dancers in taverns; horse racers curbing the excesses of used car dealers and the state Automobile Dealers Association drafting stricter laws to protect nags.

Certainly proposals would come hot and heavy to cure all Michigan's ills, as long as the interests directly affected had no say in the matter.

And legislators could sit back out of the line of fire and just run for re-election on their votes for commending retiring postmistresses, wishing disabled veterans happy birthdays, heaping praise on infants and the elderly, and congratulating both Michigan and Michigan State football teams on their seasons.

Perhaps as a reward for a job well done, a pleased legislator could switch the script once in a while and take a faithful, hard-working lobbyist to lunch.

There is a case of mistaken identity bringing some undesired public wrath down on the governor's office, sources near Gov. William Milliken say.

The governor's Lincoln limousine has gotten a bum rap for high speeding between Lansing and Detroit that was actually done by the Lincoln of Senate Majority Leader William Fitzgerald, D-Detroit, the sources said.

The cars look alike. But Milliken's two limousines bear the license plates "MSG 000" and "MSG 001." Fitzgerald's plate has his Senate district number, "SEN 001."

Try To Link Brothers, Holdups

PAW PAW, Mich. (AP) — Police in 13 states are trying to link four young Alabamians — three of them jailed in Michigan and the other in Ohio — with a series of up to 30 holdups in 10 days.

"They did it for fun and good times," an Ohio police official said about the robbery string which ended Tuesday in Mansfield, Ohio.

Authorities said the four, all residents of Birmingham, Ala., were spotted in Mansfield in a car believed stolen at Birmingham April 19. Questioning by police at Mansfield, former home of one of the four, disclosed the string of holdups, police reported.

Friday, John Toodle, 20, was in Van Buren county jail and his brother James, 18, and Gregory Austin, 22, — were in Berrien county jail.

The fourth, Elijah Goodman,

21, was scheduled to join them sometime this weekend after waiving extradition from Ohio.

They are charged with service station holdups last Saturday at Mattawan and Coloma. In each, the attendant was pistol-whipped although neither was hurt seriously, police said.

In addition, Michigan authorities said they are checking the quartet's possible involvement in filling station holdups at Jackson and Schoolcraft.

In all, the group may be responsible for 27 to 30 holdups, including ones in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky and Alabama, as well as other states, authorities in Michigan and Ohio said.

Many of the holdups involved narcotics or illegal gambling operations which cannot complain readily to police, a Mansfield police lieutenant reported.

But there were also an undetermined number of robberies at gunpoint of service stations and small stores, police said. In many cases, attendants or clerks were beaten before the robbers fled, according to police.

Goodman was described as the former resident of Mansfield.

Court Sets Ceiling On Legal Fees

members are substantially involved in personal injury work," he said.

The new fee schedule will help resolve the soaring costs of settlements in medical malpractice cases, said Michael Dively, deputy director of the state Commerce Department.

"We believe it will insure that a larger amount of the recovery goes to the victim," said Dively.

"Some lawyers were collecting 30 cents on the dollar and we don't feel there is any way that kind of a fee is defensible," said Dively, who has been guiding medical malpractice bills through the legislature.

Increasing numbers of doctors have been involved in lawsuits and the price of malpractice insurance has soared in the past year.

The fee schedule applies to all civil litigation involving personal injuries or deaths based on alleged wrongful actions.

Attorneys may charge less, but not more.

The attorney and client may agree to a contingent fee of one-third of the entire recovery up to $250,000.

A more complicated four-step alternative permits 40 per cent of the first $5,000 of the settlement to go to the attorney; 35 per cent of the next $20,000 in the settlement; and 25 per cent of the next $225,000.

Under a $100,000 settlement an attorney would collect a maximum of $27,750 under the complicated formula.

Under the alternative arrangement which the attorney and the client may agree to, the attorney could collect $33,333.

The Michigan State Medical Society, while expressing reservations about the fee schedule, feels it nevertheless is more equitable than no fee schedule, said Robert Leitch, chairman of the medical society council.

Frank of the State Bar said the vast majority of settlements are below the $50,000 level.

An attorney could collect a $15,200 maximum fee in a $50,000 settlement.

The same attorney could collect a maximum $9,000 fee under a $25,000 settlement.

Collegians Could Count For Benefits

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — If your child is over 18 and attends college you could claim him as a dependent and get more unemployment compensation under a bill passed by the House.

The measure was approved, 83-18, with immediate effect and sent to the Senate Thursday.

The bill would allow persons drawing unemployment to claim as dependents children up to age 22 who are full-time students attending classes from high school through university level.

Currently the cut-off age is 18, the age of majority.

"The problem many workers found when applying for benefits is that although the students are 18 or over they were fully supported at home and were considered their dependents for federal income tax purposes.

"These dependents are not considered dependents for the unemployment benefits," said Rep. Thomas Brown, D-Westland, sponsor of the bill.

There are no official estimates yet on how much money the bill could cost the state.

Bogus Bills Seized; 2 Arrested

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Federal authorities are seeking a third man in connection with the seizure of $5.5 million in counterfeit money.

Two Salt Lake City brothers were charged Friday in what agents said was one of the largest confiscations of phony money in U.S. history.

The bogus bills, all $100 notes, were seized late Thursday at a suburban storage shed.

Charged with counterfeiting were Allan D. LeMon, 30, and Gary LeMon, 28. They were released on $750 bond each. No date was set for their arraignment.

Asst. U.S. Attorney Max Wheeler said a warrant had also been issued for Austin Rackham of Las Vegas, Nev., in the same case.

Say Racing Bet Ended In Robbery

A Benton Township youth was arrested Friday night for allegedly winking a shotgun to collect a bet reported won in a drag race earlier this week, according to township police.

Booked on a charge of armed robbery was Dennis Morgan, 17, Box 477-F, Meadowbrook road.

Police said Richard A. Smith, age not reported, of 806 Lions Park drive, St. Joseph, complained of being robbed at gunpoint of $15 outside the Meadowbrook road house. Smith told police of having lost the $15 bet in a drag race earlier this week.

Smith told officers of going to the house to meet for another drag race that wasn't held. Morgan was apprehended at the house and a shotgun was confiscated, police said.

A Benton Harbor woman told city police early this morning her purse containing $8 was snatched, and a male companion she was walking with was struck about the head.

The incident was reported at 12:15 a.m. by Wanita Lambert, 39, of 446 1/2 Ohio street, who said she was walking on Pipestone near Broadway with Francis Bracewell, 55, of 155 Garfield, Benton Harbor.

Police said Bracewell received a small cut on the head, but was not hospitalized. The assailants were two men, probably in their 20's, police were told.

removal from the priesthood. Those same penalties would apply if Bishop Allin were charged, tried, and convicted of violating church canon.

To initiate such procedures against him would require a complaint from at least three bishops, or from 10 church members, including two clergy. After that, a 10-member inquiry board of five clergy and five laity, would act as a grand jury to decide whether to bring a presentment, or indictment.

It's News TODAY

Auto Layoffs Will Decline

DETROIT (AP) — Indefinite layoffs of auto workers will decline for a sixth consecutive week on Monday when Ford Motor Co. ends open-ended furloughs for 450 employees. Ford is the only auto company reducing indefinite layoffs next week, but it also is the only company that will have assembly plants shut on Monday. Industrywide, 171,000 out of 712,000 hourly workers will be on open-ended furlough next week, the fewest since early January. Some 215,000 workers were jobless in February when indefinite layoffs were at their peak; and 172,000 workers were on open-ended layoff this week.

Car Prices Are Going Up

DETROIT (AP) — Car prices will go up this fall when the 1976 models are introduced. But auto industry analysts say the increases will be considerably below the record price hikes of $450 put through on 1975 models last September. Some put the hikes in the $120 to $160 range. "I'm looking for about a 3 per cent price increase at the start of the model year, compared with about 10 per cent last time," one analyst in New York said. Chrysler Corp. and General Motors this week said price increases this fall are inevitable despite the slump in car sales. Neither firm said how much it would raise prices.

Phony Florida Land Deals

DETROIT (AP) — The head of a real estate investment club has been accused of swindling up to $250,000 from about three dozen investors in phony Florida land sales. The defendant — Edward Hachigian, 46, of suburban Bloomfield Township — is a prominent member of Detroit's Armenian-American community. He is moderator of a weekly ethnic radio program, "The Armenian Scene," broadcast from Garden City. Hachigian stood mute Friday in Royal Oak District Court as he was charged with three counts of embezzlement by the Oakland County prosecutor's office. He also stood mute to one count of the same charge in Southfield District Court.

Tear Gas Ends Takeover

WAGNER, S.D. (AP) — South Dakota Atty. Gen. William Janklow, who directed a tear gas barrage that ended a 16-hour takeover by armed Indians of a meat plant here, says federal policy dealing with such disturbances is a failure. Seven heavily armed Indian militants took control of the Yankton Sioux Industries Pork Plant early Friday and held it until state Highway Patrol officers and Bureau of Indian Affairs police flushed them out with tear gas Friday night. All seven were arrested, but no charges were filed against them immediately. The militants held two employees of the plant for a brief period. The two, Dutch Hubbling and Kenneth Wynia, were released about an hour and a half after the militants moved in. Janklow said both received slight injuries.

Michiana Girl Honored

NEW BUFFALO — Sue Ann Booz, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Booz of Michiana, won first place in a poster painting contest sponsored by the Heritage Days Summer festival committee here. Her drawing will decorate the cover of the 1975 directory for the festival which is scheduled for July 11-13 in New Buffalo.

Blood Donor Helpers Sought

WATERVLIET — Volunteers are being sought to help when the bloodmobile makes a planned stop here, according to a spokesman for the Berrien county chapter of the Red Cross. An organizational meeting for volunteers will be held May 12, at 7:30 p.m., at the St. Joseph Catholic church. Volunteers can contact Mrs. Merle Bajack or Mrs. Phillip Lynch, the spokesman said.

Pot Patch Target Of Drive

DOWAGIAC, Mich. (AP) — Jaycees here and Cass County sheriff's deputies will literally try to get to the root of the area's marijuana problem with what they hope will be a final assault on the popular crop in Cass county.

Marijuana, raised in the area during World War II as hemp for making rope, still grows wild in parts of the southwestern Michigan county.

In past years, the plants were cut and burned, but those attempts failed to kill it this year, the plants will pulled up by their roots and burned later.

"Marijuana is a community problem and we're going to do our best to help solve it," said Joseph Silva, a car salesman and president of the local Jaycees. The drive is called "Burn the Grass."

When the plants are ready for harvest, police begin an annual dusk-to-dawn watch for people who steal into the area to cut the plants and take them home for consumption or sale. Up to 70 people are arrested each summer, deputies said.

Capt. Paul Parrish of the sheriff's department said the assault will begin in about two weeks, when the plants are about a foot tall.

Chemical sprays have been ruled out, because of fears they may kill other vegetation.

Golf Course Gets New Hazards

St. Ignace, Mich. (AP) — Golfers playing the St. Ignace Golf Course have a few more hazards than normal to put up with these days.

State police arrested two local men on malicious destruction charges after the men allegedly drove a car on the course Thursday night, putting deep furrows on fairways and greens.

Troopers said the two arrested were Michael Glashaw, 28, and Paul Lamyotte, 25.

Authorities said damage could run into the thousands of dollars.

Blossom Panorama Unfolds Next Week

By JIM SHANAHAN
BH City Editor

The panorama of Blossomtime unfolds in southwestern Michigan next week, and, hopefully, nature will make up for a belated spring by decorating the area with blossoms.

Apricots are the first delicate blush, followed by peaches, then the more showy cherries, pears and apples.

Blossomtime officially opens Sunday with the traditional Blessing of the Blossoms at a new location — Tre-Mendus Fruit farm, Eureka road, a mile east of M-140, north of Eau Claire.

Miss Blossomtime, Cynthia Thornburgh, of Niles, and 29 other community queens will grace the ceremony as clergymen call on the Creator for a bountiful harvest. The program starts at 3 p.m.

The Blessing of the Blossoms originated in 1906 when Rev. W.J. Cady of the First Congregational church, Benton Harbor, declared Blossom Sunday. Queens and the big parade didn't come along until 1924. The festival was discontinued during World War II and resumed in 1952.

Queens return to their home towns next Monday through Friday in the Key to the Cities tour directed by Jim Barricklow, assisted by Berrien Undersheriff Edward Sander.

The festival culminates Saturday with the Grand Floral Parade starting in St. Joseph at 1 p.m. and moving over the river into Benton Harbor, and the Grand Floral ball, 9 p.m., at Shadowland, St. Joseph.

Berrien's March Jobless Rate Up

By JERRY KRIEGER
County Farm Editor

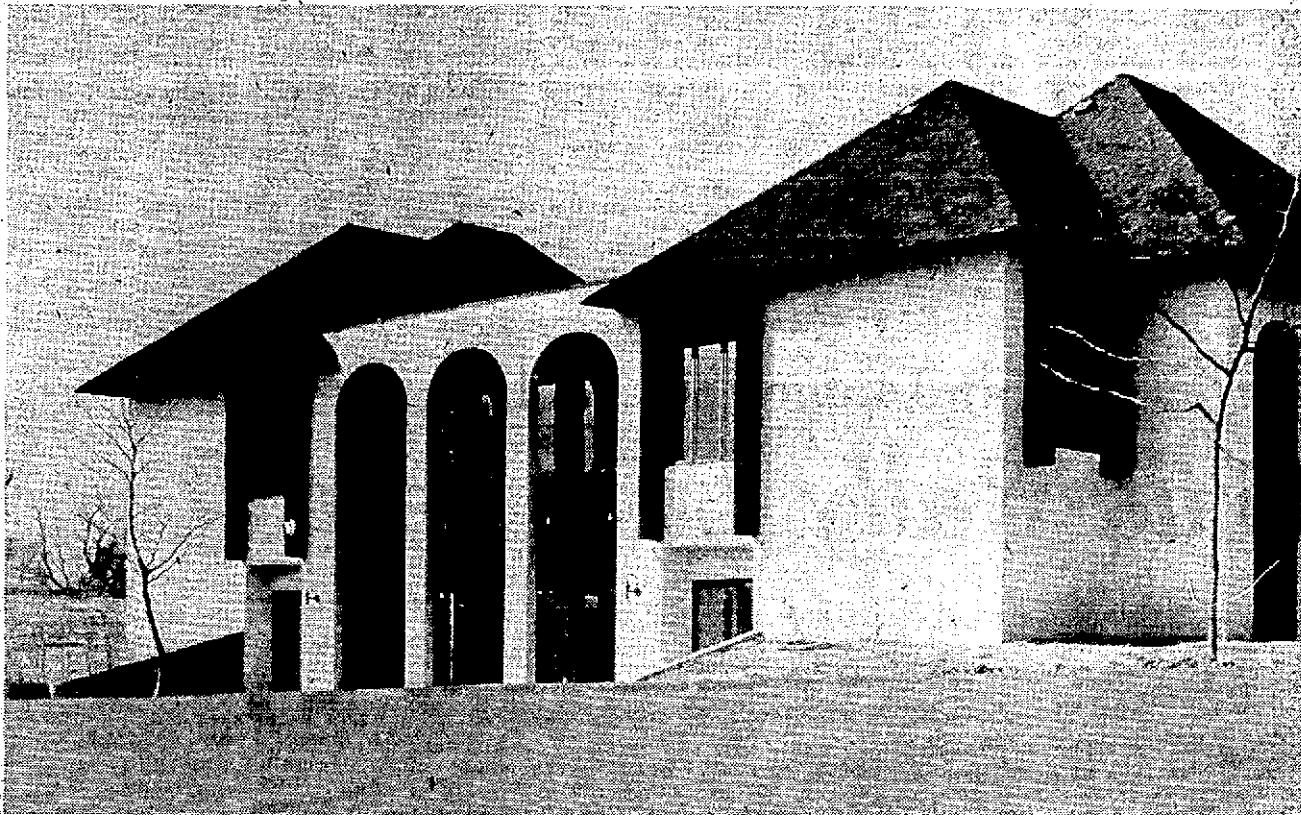

With an increase of 100 people in Berrien county's labor force and 800 fewer people at work, the unemployment rate for the county in March climbed to 15.9 per cent, according to the Michigan Employment Security commission.

Total employment for March was pegged at 65,000 people or 800 fewer than the 65,800 figure cited for February. The total civilian labor force was 77,300 in March compared to 77,200 in February.

The jobless rate for the county, according to the statistics, was up from 4.8 per cent in February. The MESC explained that the 14.8 per cent rate for February represents an adjustment made in March in the statistical "benchmarks" used to determine employment and unemployment figures. The February rate was adjusted down from a 16.2 per cent rate reported last month under the old benchmarks. Except for the new bases, the March rate would have come out at 17-plus per cent, an MESC spokesman indicated.

Kalamazoo Center Gives Aid To Storm Victims

Assistance of various types to people who suffered storm and flood damage from April 18 to 30 is available at a one-stop relief center in Kalamazoo, according to Lt. Tom McCall, director of the Berrien county Office of Emergency Preparedness.

Set up in the U.S. Army Reserve center, 5243 Portage road, Kalamazoo, the disaster center will help people from Berrien, Van Buren, Allegan, Kalamazoo, Barry and Calhoun counties.

McCall says that persons making claims should take along any documentation of damage such as photographs. Still, all claims will be investigated, he added. A damage estimate will also be useful.

There are several agencies represented at the center: Housing and Urban Development, Internal Revenue Service, Small Business Administration, Unemployment Commission, Social Services, Red Cross.

Some of the services offered are:

Businessmen and self-employed people, along with workers, can file for unemployment compensation if they are unable to work because of the disaster. Loans at 5 per cent interest are available for homeowners, businessmen and farmers to repair property that is not covered by insurance.

Up to 80 per cent of the cost of restoring damaged farmland can be paid and technical assistance can be gained.

Income tax adjustments can be made. If a person claims a disaster loss he might get an early tax refund.

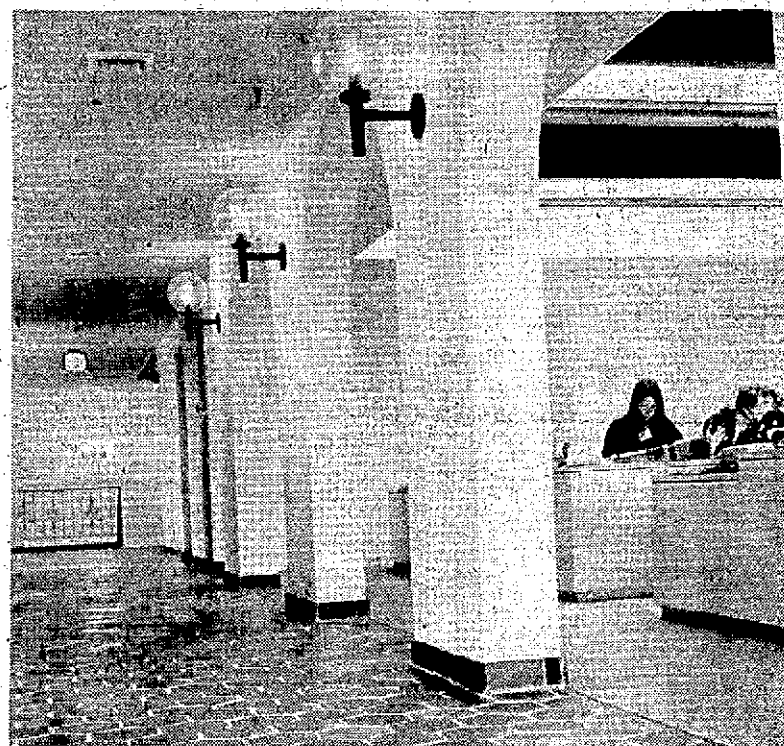

The center can provide rent-free housing for up to one year and can provide relief for mortgage or rent payments.

If none of the above are granted, and a person is still deemed eligible to receive assistance, one can receive a grant of up to $5,000 to replace clothing, appliances and other necessities lost during the flood.

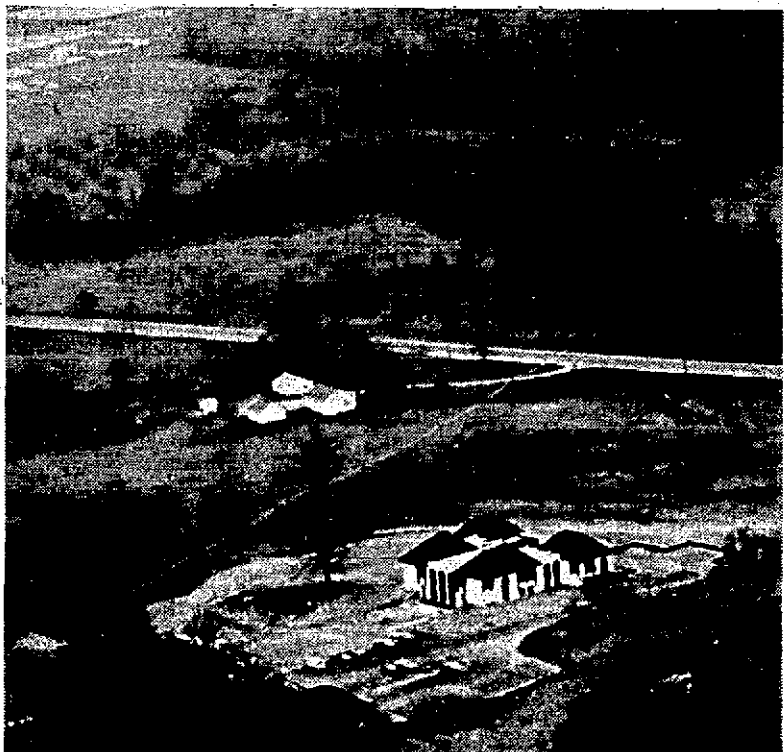

The Kalamazoo center is open everyday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., including weekends, McCall said.

MSU Confirms Baggett's Special Car Deal

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State University has confirmed star quarterback Charlie Baggett purchased a new car under a delayed financing arrangement made possible by two Lansing businessmen.

The MSU Athletic Department said Friday it learned of the auto deal a week ago and is checking "to see if any National Collegiate Athletic Association rules knowingly had been violated."

Baggett's car purchase was reported Friday by the Lansing State Journal.

The report came in the midst of an investigation of the MSU football program by the NCAA.

An NCAA official, who refused to say whether the car purchase was part of the probe, called the situation a "gray area," the newspaper said. According to the newspaper, Baggett will not have to make any payments until next football season.

Baggett purchased the 1975 Buick for $5,898 last month from Russ Kelly, an MSU running back in the 1950s and owner of Russ Kelly Buick in Mason, according to the newspaper.

According to papers on Baggett's car, John Demmer, president of Demmer Corp. and a well-known booster of MSU football, cosigned the note as the guarantor of the automobile, the newspaper reported. The paper said Demmer has employed Baggett summers in his tool and die plant.

The paper quoted Kelly as saying Baggett made an initial down payment of $250, and that Kelly "over-financed" the car to the tune of $802. In effect, this meant Baggett was loaned extra money to pay off his loan for five months, the newspaper said, and won't have to pay any more until October.

"I don't feel there's anything illegal about it," Kelly was quoted as saying. "We worked out a program for Baggett with the bank and went through normal loan procedures. I'd be happy to show the papers to the NCAA."

MSU assistant coach Jimmy Raye insisted the purchase was proper and legal and said he even cleared it through the MSU Athletic Department.

Demmer acknowledged, "Charlie and I have been close friends since he came to town." He said from time to time he has employed

MSU football players in his plant, adding they have always worked and for a fair wage.

Baggett refused comment, saying "There's nothing to talk about."

William Walworth, senior vice president of Michigan National Bank which is carrying Baggett's loan, said he would only speak hypothetically but called a loan where repayments aren't required for five months "unusual. I can't recall making an automobile loan like that."

Another bank official was quoted as saying "The average student who comes in here and says I want a car, without regular employment, chances are he's going to have a rough time."

The newspaper quoted campus sources as saying Baggett got the automobile because he threatened to turn professional, but Ray said that was untrue.

Oakland Edges Sox In 12th Wild Rally Lifts Texas

From Associated Press
The Texas Rangers finally got their man.

California's Bill Singer, who beat the Rangers 4-1 with a six-hitter back on April 23, had them shut out 3-0 on three hits going to the ninth inning Friday night and had a string of 16 scoreless innings against them.

Then he did something good...and something bad. He struck out Jeff Burroughs to start the inning...but the third strike also was a wild pitch and Burroughs made it safely to first.

"It was probably my most pleasing strikeout ever," said Burroughs, who eventually scored the first of four runs that lifted the Rangers to a stunning 4-3 triumph over the Angels — their sixth victory in a row. The Rangers loaded the bases in the ninth on the strikeout-wild pitch, a double by Mike Hargrove and a walk. Singer then fell behind Joe Lovitto 2-0 and was replaced by Mickey Scott, who completed the walk and forced in the Rangers' first run.

Roy Smalley's sacrifice fly scored Hargrove and moved pinch-runner Toby Harrah to third, then Jim Sundberg's single tied the game. Dick Lange came on and walked Cesar Tovar to load the bases again and Frank Tanana, the fourth pitcher of the inning, threw a wild pitch which allowed Lovitto to score the winning run.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Cleveland Indians nipped the Baltimore Orioles 4-3, the Oakland A's edged the Chicago White Sox 4-3 in 12 innings, the Minnesota Twins downed the Kansas City Royals 4-1 and the Milwaukee Brewers defeated the New York Yankees 4-2. The Detroit-Boston game was rained out.

If the mark of a good team is winning in the late innings, what does that make the Orioles? Charlie Spikes and Rico Carty delivered run-scoring hits in the eighth as the Indians handed Baltimore its fifth loss in a row. In four of them, the Birds have blown leads after the seventh inning.

Oscar Gamble drew a walk off reliever Dave Johnson in the eighth and pinch-runner John Lowenstein stole second. Spikes then doubled to score Lowenstein with the tying run and Carty, who homered earlier, bloomed a single off Bob Reynolds to score Spikes with the winner.

Home runs by Elrod Hendricks and Lee May had given the Orioles a 3-2 lead.

Bill North singled home Claudell Washington with the winning run in the 12th inning. Washington opened the inning with a single off reliever Terry Forster, who blanked the A's after replacing Wilbur Wood in the eighth. Forster then fielded Larry Haney's grounder but threw late to second. Ted Kubiak sacrificed the runners along and North singled to right. Rolie Fingers, 1-2, picked up the victory after Vida Blue surrendered seven hits and three runs — all unearned — in 10 innings.

Rookie Dan Ford's first two major league runs batted in and sharp relief efforts by Bill Campbell and Tom Burgmeier keyed Minnesota's triumph. Campbell replaced winning pitcher Dave Goltz with runners on first and second and none out in the seventh inning. He struck out Buck Martinez and got Fred Patek to ground into an inning-ending double play.

Burgmeier came on with the bases loaded and one out in the eighth. He struck out George Brett and retired pinch hitter Jim Wohlford on a fly ball. The three Minnesota pitchers limited Kansas City to five hits.

Mike Hegan and Don Money smashed solo home runs to back the six-hit pitching of Billy Champion. Hegan's fourth-inning homer off Doc Medich broke a 2-2 tie and sent the Brewers on the way to their third straight victory.

The Yankees got to Champion for two runs in the third inning on a bases-loaded single by Elliott Maddox but the Brewers tied it in the bottom of the third.

Trainer Has New Outlook

Rondinello's Prince Derby Contender

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Trainer Lou Rondinello ended up with a get-well bouquet at last year's Kentucky Derby. Today he was back at Churchill Downs seeking a different floral arrangement — the famed blanket of roses that goes to a Derby winner.

Rondinello sent out the strong John Galbreath-owned entry of Prince Thou Art and Sylvan Place to oppose 13 other 3-year-olds including major stakers winners Foolish Pleasure, Master Derby, Diabolo, Avatar and Promised City.

Post time for the 101st running of the 1 1/4-mile Derby was 5:32 p.m. EDT. Live television coverage, by ABC, was scheduled for 5 p.m.-6 p.m.

Rondinello brought Little Current to the Derby last year and then had to leave most of the actual training to an aide when he was hospitalized with kidney stones the Tuesday before the Derby. He remained in the hospital until the Monday after the Derby.

"The doctor asked me if I wanted to leave the hospital for about three hours Saturday and go to the race," recalled Rondinello. "But I said 'no way.'"

If Rondinello was feeling low, the Derby did little to cheer him up although Little Current ran well, closing with a rush to finish fifth.

The winner was Cannonade, the supposedly weaker half of a Woody Stephens-trained entry. Judger, the other half of the entry, finished eighth.

Prince Thou Art was considered the stronger half of Rondinello's entry today. The son of Hall of Reason has won only three of 11 career starts, but one of the victories was a big one.

He handed Foolish Pleasure the only defeat of that colt's 11-race career after a strong stretch run in the Florida Derby.

Two-horse entries have produced four Derby victories in the previous 25 runnings. In 1950, King Ranch sent out Middleground and On The Mark, with Middleground getting the roses while On The Mark finished eighth.

Four years later A.J. Crevlin took a shot at the Derby with Determine and Allied. He hit the mark with Determine. Allied finished ninth.

Bettors didn't get a chance to cash another winning Derby ticket on an entry until 1973 when the great Secretariat won.

Secretariat, owned by Meadow Stable, ran as a Lucien Laurin-trained entry with Edwin Whittaker's Angle Light. Angle Light, who had upset Secretariat in the Wood Memorial, finished 10th in the Derby.

Others entered in today's Derby were Media, Honey Mark, Rushing Man, Bold Chapeau, Catch, Bombay Duck, Round Stake and Fashion Sale.

MSU, 'M' Meet In Key Series

From Associated Press
The unbeaten Michigan State Spartans face the rival Michigan Wolverines today and Sunday in what could be the deciding contests in Big Ten conference baseball.

The Wisconsin Badgers split a crucial doubleheader with Minnesota Friday, dropping its conference record to 9-3.

Fourth-place Iowa, meanwhile, fell 3-2 victims to the host Northwestern Wildcats before bouncing back for a 13-9 victory in the second game of a doubleheader.

In nonconference play Friday, Ohio State dropped a pair of home games to Xavier, 2-1 and 3-0.

The Spartans, 5-0, travel to Ann Arbor for doubleheaders today and the Wolverines, 5-1, go to East Lansing Sunday. MSU is second in conference hitting with a team average of .373, but Michigan's pitchers lead the Big Ten with a staff earned run average of 3.35.

Wisconsin and Minnesota, 7-4, short circuited each other's fading little hopes.

The visiting Gophers capitalized on three unearned runs for its 6-3 victory Friday, and Wisconsin relied on Scott Mackey's pitching for its 4-2 win.

Northwestern scored two runs in the bottom of the seventh to take the first game from Iowa, 3-2. The Hawkeyes came back with nine runs in the second inning of the nightcap and won 13-9.

Iowa is now 5-3 in conference, Northwestern 5-7.

Wisconsin hosts Iowa today, while Minnesota travels to Northwestern. Other games include Illinois, 4-7, at Purdue, 111, Cincinnati at Ohio State and Indiana State at Indiana, 5-7.

Shamrocks Edge Out Valley To Win Third Invitational

BY JOHN VANDEN BEER
Staff Sports Writer
BERRIEN SPRINGS — Berrien Springs lengthened its lead in the race to become Southwestern Michigan's top Class C track and field team at the 23rd annual Blossomtime Relays here Friday night.

The host Shamrocks won five of the 12 events, including two in record times, while repeating as the Blossomtime champions and winning their third invitational of the season.

River Valley won three events while giving Berrien a good run for the title and trailed by only 70 to 84 in the final standings. No other team was close to the Shamrocks and Mustangs in the 18-team field, although Bridgman did claim the meet's only other record in the high jump.

Berrien coach Norm Harris was again proud of his Shamrocks' efforts, but he warned that there are threats ahead to his squad's lofty position because the upcoming conference and regional meets are more "individualistic."

Berrien Springs' Bill Miller was credited with four firsts Friday night while teammates Arden Paustian and Reggie Croom came away with three firsts each in the three running events they entered.

The Shamrock records came back-to-back before the "last event" of the evening—and wrapped up the championship. Miller, Mark Wymer, Bob White and Croom won the 440 relay in a record 46.45, breaking the old mark by Decatur of 46.5.

And Tim Mead, White, Croom and Paustian followed in the sprint medley relay with a record effort of 2:39.0. Bangor held the former mark of 2:40.5.

Berrien Springs also won the long jump relay, including a leap of 19 feet, 6 inches by Miller which was the best of the day; the 880 relay, and the sprint distance relay. The sprint distance title was somewhat of a gift, because the "real" winner, Watervliet, was disqualified for passing the baton outside of the exchange zone.

River Valley triumphs included the pole vault by Dick Rieth, George Hass and Dave Rieth; the long distance medley by Glenn Horak, Keith Hall, Dave Rieth and Doug Carlson, and the mile relay by Carlson, Hall, Stan Hokanson and Dick Rieth.

The pole vault was stopped by meet chairman Jack Davis after 5½ hours of competition at about 8:30 p.m. with the bar still at 10 feet, 6 inches.

Darkness was shrouding the pole vault area and Davis felt the situation was getting dangerous. New Buffalo vaulter Joe Trainor did fall and suffered a badly sprained ankle.

Bridgman high jumped to a record 17 feet, 7 inches on the efforts of Brian Ott, Mike Schaller and Don Skorupa. Schaller was the best of the meet at 6 feet. The same three jumpers set the record at 17 feet, 5 inches a year ago.

Fennville's Marc Moeller had the best shot put heave of 47 feet, 5½ inches while leading the Blackhaws to first in that relay.

Watervliet did win the half mile medley relay, with Jon Hinkelman running a 55.4 in the anchor leg, and Lake Michigan Catholic captured the distance medley, with Tim Gentry legging a 4:34.4 mile anchor.

The Berrien Springs Jaycees sponsored Blossomtime Relays had one of its biggest fields in recent years with about 425 athletes competing.

Greg Lausman absorbed the defeat while Underwood was the winner. Robinson, who ended with four hits for the twin bill, added two doubles while Don Balzer tripled. Adams belted a triple for Berrien, now 3-3. New Buffalo is 2-6.

Harbor Loses

BATTLE CREEK — The Benton Harbor girls' softball team lost to Battle Creek Lakeview 10-4 here Thursday.

Lancer Girls Win Relays

OTSEGO — The Lakeshore girls' track team turned in a powerful performance here Friday night to capture the Otsego Lions Relays.

Lakeshore, which set three new school records, took three firsts and two seconds and turned in three honor roll efforts.

The Lancers finished with 30 points to edge out Gull Lake which had 24. South Haven ended with 6 points and Paw Paw was blanked in the field of 13 teams.

Lakeshore won the 880 relay with a school record time of 1:31.1. The clocking is also best in the area and better than Lakeshore's previous tops 1:52.5. Members of 880 team were Tammy Riegel, Janet Kinley, Rhonda Edwards and Kathy Graham.

The 440 squad also established a school mark with a 53.4 time, third best in the area. Runners were Sue Farrow, Peggy Root, Darlene Gleffe and Ann Stockwell.

Lakeshore's third win came in the sprint medley relay (440, 220, 220, 440). Clocking in 2:59.5 were Gleffe, Riegel, Edwards and Root.

Gayle Nichols also set a new school record with a time of 14.04.2 in the two-mile run. The clocking is the third best in the area.

Sue Kunkel went 4 feet, 10 inches in the high jump for an individual first while Lakeshore took second as a team.

Lakeshore also had a second in the shuttle hurdles.

Roscoe Regains National Record

DOWAGIAC — Southwestern Michigan College's John Roscoe loves those Roadrunner Relays.

The super runner from Terre Haute, Ind. established a new national junior college record in the exhausting six-mile run Friday afternoon. The effort marks the second straight year in which Roscoe has set a six-mile record in the Roadrunner Relays.

Roscoe, a member of SMC's national champion cross country team, toured the new SMC course in 28:48.2. He set a record last spring of 29:19.0 in the Relays, which were held at St. Joseph's Dickinson Stadium. But that record later fell with a 29:18.0 clocking.

"That's just fantastic," offered Roadrunner coach Ron Gunn. "He ran a fantastic race... better than anyone has ever run."

"We had him clocked for two miles in 8:19 and for three miles in 14:12. Those are some outstanding splits. He ran the last mile in 4:48."

Roscoe had some tough competition in Devon Hind of Jackson Community College. Hind, a national two-mile champ indoors, finished second in the six-mile in 30:25.0.

Roscoe's performance highlighted Friday's action in the huge Roadrunner Relays in which individual events in the college division were run. Relay events in the college, high school boys and high school girls divisions were slated to get underway at 10:30 a.m. this morning.

SMC also got two other school records Friday. Joel Huff won the high hurdles with a time of 15.1 and Howard Lane took second in the triple jump with a leap of 43 feet, 4 inches.

No team scores are being kept this year in the sixth annual event.

Lakers Regain Top Spot In Red Arrow

Pitching depth may determine the eventual Red Arrow baseball champion.

If so, it's hard to bet against Lake Michigan Catholic.

The Lakers got a solid hurting effort from its No. 3 pitcher Richard Maxwell to squeeze past determined Eau Claire 4-3 in nine innings Friday afternoon.

Meanwhile, Hartford, not starting ace Rick Thomas for the first time in league play, was upset by Galien 8-3.

The combination vaulted Lake Michigan back into first place in the league standings. The Lakers, who lost to Hartford and Thomas last Tuesday to fall to second, are now 7-1 while the Indians slip to 5-1.

The Lakers were scheduled to host Lakeshore at 11 a.m. today in a non-league twin bill at Riverview. Hartford, hard hit by makeup games, was slated to play its third Red Arrow game in three days this morning by hosting Bridgman.

Maxwell, filling in for No. 2 starter Bob Mattner who has been sick and then injured, allowed only five hits and didn't walk a batter in the nine frames.

Don Mann was also very effective in defeat. He struck out 16 batters and walked three while giving up seven hits.

The Lakers finally broke through in the pitching duel with a run in the sixth on a RBI infield single by Gary Meek, who batted three singles to raise his average to .467.

But the Beavers came up with two in the seventh on a throwing error and a fielder's choice. Lake Michigan got even in the bottom of the seventh on Gary Bartalone's infield single.

At Flowers' put Eau Claire in front 3-2 in the ninth when the center-fielder committed a two-base error. Flowers then stole third and came in on a throwing error by the catcher.

The Lakers then rallied in the bottom of the ninth. Maxwell walked and Kevin Wheeler, running for Maxwell, stole second. Jim Elter then singled to put runners on first and third.

With two away, Wheeler came home on a wild pitch. Meek then singled to right field to give the Lakers the game and first place.

"When Mann has his control, he's one of the best pitchers in the conference," noted Al Nixon, Lakers coach. "On the other hand Maxwell has really filled the void for Mattner, who should be back next week. He didn't walk a batter...that's really showing excellent control."

"I knew Hartford had a lot of games to make up. And Galien is coming on strong."

The Lakers stole five bases Friday at Riverview and now have pilfered 21 bases in 22 attempts for the season.

"It's been a real problem finding a solid second pitcher although Flowers (Brad) did a nice job in relief today," offered Indian coach Dick Patterson. "Those rain-outs really have jammed us up...they've hurt us."

Thomas, who has two no-hitters to his credit this year, hurled the final two outs Friday but by that time the game was decided thanks to a seven-run second inning by the Gaels. Bob Meachum was the starter and loser with Flowers relieving in the second.

Matt Koziel's three-run homer was the big blow in the

Trevino Fires Lead In Houston Tourney

Eyes First Title In Own State

HOUSTON (AP) — Lee Trevino is making no premature victory claims in the $150,000 Houston Open Golf Tournament.

"You've never got it won here," Trevino said after opening up a two-stroke advantage with a three-under-par 69 in Friday's second round. "Some guy can come out of the pack and shoot a 65 at you and you've got yourself a fight."

"It'll be a horse race, you can bet on it. You may get an early front-runner, but they'll bunch up coming into the stretch and it'll be neck and neck down to the wire."

Despite the disclaimers, the reigning PGA national champion was in firm command with a 135 total — nine-under par on the new 6,929-yard Woodlands Country Club course — halfway through this race for a $30,000 first prize.

More important than the cash, however, is Trevino's desire to win his first title ever in his native Texas.

"I've finished second in all of 'em," he said — second to Buddy Allin last year in the Byron Nelson Classic, second to Mike Hill in the 1972 San Antonio Texas Open, second to Horner Blancas in the 1970 Colonial National Invitation, second to Roberto De Vicenzo in the 1968 Houston tournament.

"I think it was by a total of about five strokes," Trevino said. "Maybe, one of these days, before I get too old..."

He let the sentence trail off.

His closest challengers are veteran Dale Douglass and youthful Eddie Pearce, tied at 137. Douglass and Pearce each had a 70 on Friday, and each had a pair of three-putts that kept them out of a share of first place.

Three strokes off the pace at 138 was a big group composed of Australian veteran Bruce Crampton, Jim Colbert, Joe Inman, rookie Alan Tapie, Mike Wynn, Gil Morgan and Jerry McGee.

Morgan had a 68 in hot, muggy weather with threatening skies. Colbert shot a second-round 69, Crampton, Wynn and Inman had 70s and Tapie and McGee took 71s.

David Graham, who shared the first-round lead with Trevino, dropped four shots back to 139 after blowing to a 73.

Arnold Palmer had to rally for a hard-won 70 that included an eagle and two birdies to just make the cut for the final two rounds at 144. Defending Houston Open champ Dave Hill didn't make it. He shot 74-147 and failed to qualify.

Jack Nicklaus, Johnny Miller, Gary Player and Tom Weiskopf are not competing.

Hitting, Defense Spur Bear Win

DOWAGIAC — St. Joseph used some solid hitting and defense to turn back Dowagiac 8-6 here Friday in a Big Six baseball contest.

The Bears rapped eight hits, including three by Roger Vogie, while playing errorless ball to register their third conference win in five outings. The Chiefs sink to 0-5.

St. Joe scored two in the first, one in third and fourth and five in the fifth frame. Vogie socked a bases-filled single to highlight the fifth.

Jay Claravino cracked two singles and two RBI's while

Burrow Ignites Bobcat Triumph

NILES — Jim Burrow used his arm and bat to spark Brandywine to a 10-0 win over Edwardsburg here Friday in a Blossomland baseball game.

Burrow hurled a two-hitter over the five frames (the game was halted early due to the ten-run rule) and also banged out three hits in three appearances at the plate for two RBI's.

The Bobcats tallied eight runs in the third when they sent 13 batters up. Rick Zache added two singles for the Cats. Tom Godsey and Jim Stewart collected the Eddie hits, both singles.

Brandywine is now 5-3 in the league, good for a third-place tie with Coloma. The Eddie's are last at 1-8.

McFarland Stars

Terry McFarland hurled a no-hitter as the Benton Harbor junior varsity beat Lake Michigan Catholic 8-8 Thursday. McFarland fanned nine but walked eight. Jeff Phillips went 4-for-4 for the winners. McFarland, Gary Pollyea and Napoleon Lark all added two hits.

Tigers Into 'Meditation'

DETROIT (AP) — They don't sit around on the floor in a circle with their legs crossed, smoking water pipes.

And they didn't fly to the Himalayas during their four-day break recently to seek the comfort of a mountain guru hermit.

But a number of Detroit Tigers are into transcendental meditation and, according to pitching coach Steve Hamilton, it might prove very beneficial to the team over the course of the baseball season.

"TM (transcendental meditation) is scientific," Hamilton explained. "It's a principal for relaxation. It lowers your metabolic rate. You have deeper rest."

"You have a lot of tensions in our mind and body. When you meditate you think of nothing in particular. When you do that you relieve tensions and stress and give your body deeper rest than when you're sleeping."

"The greatest affect of it will be seen over the length of the season when the players find themselves playing more efficiently."

Hamilton said there are about a dozen Tigers or Tiger employees involved. Among them: players Mickey Lolich, Vern Riffe, Bill Freehan, Ron LeFlore, John Knox and Art James; Manager Ralph Houk; and General Manager Jim Campbell.

A number of players' wives are also involved.

"It's an individual thing," said Freehan. "It's not something I'd want to try to talk someone into. I couldn't be any kind of outspoken evangelist on something like that. I wouldn't be in it, though, if I didn't like it."

The idea began in spring training through the recommendation of Tiger owner John Fetzer, Hamilton said.

"He wrote a letter and said this guy was coming to camp to talk about it and that we should look into it," he said.

The man, John Leopold, conducted several meetings at Detroit's training camp at Lakeland, Fla. The latest meditation gathering was over the weekend in the Detroit suburb of Birmingham.

"It's something you do twice a day," said Freehan. "20 minutes in the morning and 20 minutes in the evening by yourself. The meetings are to see how you've progressed."

"I was really interested after he (Leopold) said it didn't involve basic intelligence," said Hamilton jokingly, his baseball cap turned sideways and pulled down to his ears.

"I don't want to make any dedicated followers feel bad, but I don't really care anything about the founder, Maharishi Yogi, or any of that guru stuff. All I want to know is the technique and what benefits it has to me."

Thinking about nothing is the key, Hamilton said. "Meditation is the word — nothing. That's what you think about — nothing."

Ex-Bears Shine

KALAMAZOO — Mark Kotyuk and Dave Seimer of St. Joseph turned in their best performances of the outdoor track season last weekend while representing Western Michigan University in the Ball State Relays.

Kotyuk placed second in the pole vault by clearing 15 feet while Seimer took fifth in the triple jump with a leap of 46 feet, 10 inches.

CLOSER TO COURT GUIDELINES

New Antismut Law Asked

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's antismut law must follow U.S. Supreme Court guidelines more closely if it is to be enforceable, a state law-maker says.

Rep. Paul Rosenbaum, D-Battle Creek, says he believes the legislature can draft a law acceptable to the state Supreme Court if it includes specific standards from the federal court's latest obscenity decision.

Rosenbaum, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, met with all six Supreme Court justices Friday to discuss the court's ruling earlier in the week which in effect handed the pornography issue back to the legislature.

Rosenbaum's committee has before it several antiobscenity ills. Also present at the meeting Friday were Sen. Basil Brown, D-Highland Park, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, and the majority vice chairmen of each committee.

"We had a useful and candid discussion about philosophical issues," Rosenbaum said afterwards. But he said the discussion did not deal with the court's reasoning in its latest decision, nor guidelines it indicated would be acceptable for a revised law.

The court, in overturning the conviction of a former Grand Rapids adult bookstore owner, said it was divided on whether the current law, which forbids the distribution of pornographic materials, can be applied to consenting adults. It said it was enforceable in the cases of juveniles or unwilling adults.

The decision has left the state law virtually unenforceable, local prosecutors said.

The problem with the current law, Rosenbaum indicated, is that it provides inadequate "tests" for what can be considered obscene. After defining what is obscene, the law says the material must be considered as a whole, and judged as to its impact on "the average person in a community" and by the common standards of the community and the period of time in which the violation is charged.

The U.S. Supreme Court, in its latest go-around with pornography, severely tightened the former rules which allowed dissemination of nearly anything. It also gave local communities the right to enact antismut ordinances, which some have.

The court said for the first time that pornography could be judged by community, not national, standards. It also tightened the tests by throwing out the old "redeeming social value" escape and ruling that material can be pornographic if the average person applying community standards finds the material offensive.

The material must depict or describe sexual conduct in an offensive way, specifically defined by state law and must lack serious artistic, political or scientific value. The definitions of what is obscene in state law may, therefore, have to be made more specific.

"It is up to my committee whether it is a proper function of government to regulate obscenity," Rosenbaum said. "It's a very emotional issue and it will take a long time to come up with rational legislation."

Most Whites, Many Blacks Oppose Busing In Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — A vast majority of the parents of white students and 50 per cent of the parents of black students are opposed to school busing in Detroit, a recent survey shows.

The survey, by Market Opinion Research, also showed half of all the parents claim they will not allow their children to be bused. U.S. District Court Judge Robert E. DeMascio currently is holding hearings on the plan, ordered by the U.S. Supreme Court. He is expected to institute a busing program for the opening of schools in September.

Eighty-nine per cent of the white parents opposed any plan, the survey said. It added one third of the city's white parents said they would leave Detroit if a busing plan began, while almost none of the black families would move.

The report, done for New Detroit, Inc., a civic group, said one quarter of the blacks believe desegregation will improve education, and most whites predict no change. However, blacks now believe their children receive an inferior education while whites think both races receive equal instruction.

Researchers said the question of violence is a key one in the busing issue, and reported opposition is "somewhat more intense" in Detroit than it was in nearby Pontiac, which has had busing since 1971. No major incidents have occurred in Pontiac since the first year of that program, the study said.

Detroit schools, with 260,000 students, are 71.5 per cent black, according to school board figures.

Meanwhile, in hearings before DeMascio, the Detroit Board of Education charged a massive flight of whites to the suburbs would occur if a busing plan proposed by the NAACP is initiated. The board wants its own plan, which includes fewer schools and students, than the NAACP proposal, to be adopted instead. DeMascio is free to compromise or develop his own strategy.

Planner Merle Henrickson said if schools which presently are 75 or more per cent black are included in the busing plan, they quickly will lose white students as parents move hurriedly away.

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken's business privilege tax is in deep trouble and the legislature should consider nuisance taxes to raise enough money to balance next year's budget, a key Republican says.

Sen. Robert Davis of Gaylord, Senate minority leader, said Friday the business tax revision may not pass in time to be included in the 1975-76 budget calculations.

Milliken has proposed the revamping of business taxes, which if approved, is expected to yield a one-time windfall of $180 million. But if the bill is not passed by the time the legislature considers the upcoming budget, lawmakers must look elsewhere for that money, Davis said. "I think it will pass eventually, but maybe not this year. I think the legislature should start looking at nuisance taxes," Davis said.

He proposed increasing cigarette taxes by two or five cents a pack. He also is considering an additional liquor tax and borrowing from the state Veterans' Trust Fund and possibly the Uninsured Motorist Fund.

Cuts in the governor's recommended $3-billion budget also may be needed, Davis said.

Milliken will be forced to veto several budget items after the legislature raises the spending level as expected, Davis predicted. Some lawmakers believe Milliken's budget figures are out of whack even assuming the business tax passes, Davis added.

"Unless substantial changes are made so it doesn't adversely affect services and the professions, the bill is dead for now," Davis said.

Milliken is willing to make those changes to salvage the bill, but it may be too late now to pass any major revision by the end of the fiscal year June 30, Davis said.

Budget bills already are under committee consideration and the legislature intends to have a new budget wrapped up by July 1.

But unless passage of the business privilege tax comes by then, lawmakers will have to find an extra $180 million to balance the books.

State's Tax Sale Date Is Changed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Tuesday's scheduled sale of properties for delinquent taxes will be postponed till the first Tuesday in October in 74 Michigan counties.

Gov. William Milliken Friday signed into law a bill delaying the tax sales.

The bill exempts nine counties with outstanding tax notes issued in anticipation of the sale. They are Branch, Grand Traverse, Ionia, Kalamazoo, Kent, Muskegon, Oakland, Ottawa and Manistee.

The legislature sent the measure to the governor earlier this week after supporters said delaying the sale would give people more time to try to pay their delinquent taxes. Also, supporters said, the delay would give the legislature time to complete a review of the fairness of the process.

Law Has Sudsmen Foaming

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Some Michigan beer peddlers are crying in their suds over a new state law prohibiting salesmen from buying rounds for the house in taverns.

Under the law, which went into effect Thursday, suds salesmen are limited to buying one beer for one person. It must be the salesman's own brand.

The rule was ordered by the Michigan Liquor Control Commission, which is trying to crack down on "wheeling and dealing" by some alcohol peddlers, according to commission Chairman Stanley Thayer.

Liquor and wine salesmen also are limited to dispensing one free sample of their product, but it can be a fifth or a quart.

Some beer salesmen are complaining the rule discriminates against them because a fifth of liquor goes farther than one beer.

"We just won't go into bars any more," said one salesman. "It'll make us look cheap to go up to a table where four guys are sitting and say, 'Hey, I'll buy one of you a beer.'"

Overtime Pay Hours Changed In Michigan

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Overtime pay will begin after 46 hours of work a week — rather than 48 — under a new state minimum wage law affecting more than 600,000 Michigan workers.

The law took effect Thursday, requiring employers to pay overtime compensation at time and one-half after 46 hours' work to hotel, motel, restaurant and retail workers. Previously the overtime provisions didn't apply until after 48 hours.

NEW VENTURE: O. S. Turner, 72, displays decal shirt in his new store in Watervliet. He operated some games at now closed Silver Beach amusement park previously and opened store because, he said, "I've got to keep busy." (Cliff Stevens photo)

At 72, He Opens New Business

WATERVLIET — At 72 years of age, O. S. (Oliver) Turner of Watervliet has opened his own shop offering over 200 decal designs on tee shirts and sweatshirts.

Turner, for 30 years owned and operated several games at the now defunct Silver Beach amusement park, St. Joseph.

"I've got to keep busy," said Turner in commenting on his new venture at an age when most retire. "I enjoy working."

Turner's business, Eleanor Concessions, on Main street at Pleasant street, sells shirts with decals both retail and wholesale.

According to Turner, three types of decals are available — classic, glitter and the new photographic decal. He applies the decal on the shirts in less than one minute.

In addition to his business, Turner still finds time to make a few county fairs during the summer months, and specifically looks forward to the annual Centreville fair.

While at the Silver Beach, Turner and his wife operated Bingo, roll-down, bearpitch, glasspitch and roll-a-score. During seven years before the amusement park closed, he added the decal teeshirts and sweatshirts to his concession line.

Turner maintains business hours of 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday and 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., Sundays.

Buchanan Names Kindergarten Day

BUCHANAN — Registration for youngsters who will attend kindergarten in Buchanan schools in September will be held from 1 p.m. to 3:15 p.m., Wednesday, May 14, at Moccasin school gym, school officials have announced.

Registration times will be based on alphabetical order and parents should bring the child's birth certificate, officials said.

Parents unable to make the May 14 registration session can register their children for kindergarten between May 15 and June 6 at any of the elementary schools.

Any child years old on or before Oct. 15 is eligible to attend kindergarten for the 1975-76 school year, officials said.

Parents of children whose last name begins with A-C should register their children at 1 p.m.; names beginning with D-F at 1:15; G-I, 1:30; J-L, 1:45; M and N, 2:15; O-Q, 2:30; R and S, 2:45; T-V, 3; and W-Z, 3:15.

Covert School Asks Parents To Attend

COVERT — A conference between parents and Covert school teachers will be held at the Covert elementary school all-purpose room Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m., school officials have announced. Discussions will center on homework, work with slow and fast learners and parents helping children with homework. The elementary staff is also planning a display of teaching materials, according to Supt. William W. Randall.

Coloma Schedules Second Drug Panel

COLOMA — The second program in a series dealing with drugs will be held next Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Coloma high school auditorium.

The series is co-sponsored by the Coloma Parent Advisory committee on Drug abuse and Coloma Jaycees, and is open to the public. The program will consist of panel members from the Riverwood Community Mental Health center and a member of an area police department. Information will be presented on the different drugs found in the Coloma community, why they are a problem, at what ages the particular drugs are used, and for what reasons. Included in the program will be ways that help can be made available for people with drug problems.

New Buffalo Slates Vision-Hearing Test

NEW BUFFALO — A vision and hearing clinic for pre-school children will be held at the New Buffalo elementary school on Detroit street from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. May 16.

The free service is provided by the Berrien county health department and the Michigan department of public health. Mrs. Richard Pirlet, local chairman of pre-school testing, or the school nurse, Miss George Swadlow, may be contacted at the school to set up an appointment. NEWS OF MARKETS

MARKET UP: The stock market posted a strong gain this week with the Dow Jones average closing at 848.48 Friday, up 36.68 from the week prior. The Associated Press average rose by 6.8 over the same period to close at 272.4. Analysts said the market was being boosted by indications that interest rates might not begin another upward spiral. Niles Simplicity Mum On Firings tions director of its plant here Friday, but refused to explain what prompted the shakeup.

Executive Vice President George Lund said the dismissals of plant manager James Marcus and industrial relations director Robert Wolfe were a corporate "internal matter."

Lund, formerly manager of the plant, said he would assume Marcus' position for "an indefinite period."

The plant, Niles' largest employer with 2,000 workers, has had a history of labor troubles. Last winter it was shut for three months by a strike.

The New York-based company is a major producer of dress patterns.

A federal bankruptcy judge in Grand Rapids said Friday that unless some arrangement is made to prevent further losses to creditors, he would have no choice but to declare May 16 that the Lansing-based firm is bankrupt.

Judge Edward Benson said he has already told the firm's receiver to proceed as if it will be declared bankrupt.

Benson said the two-week delay was granted to provide time for two men to work out an operating agreement acceptable to Diamond Reo's creditors. But he described chances of such an agreement as "only a slight prospect."

Benson identified the pair attempting to arrange continued operations as Arthur Aspengren of Alma and James Duncan of Lansing.

Aspengren is the former head of the truck division of White Motor Co. He was listed also as president of a subsidiary of the McClure Oil Co. of Alma. Duncan was identified as a private investment broker from Lansing.

The delay allows Diamond Reo to continue operations on a limited basis.

Controversial Book Wins Prize

NEW YORK (AP) — "Time on the Cross," a book that maintains slaves in the Old South benefited from their bondage, was one of three works awarded a prestigious 1975 Bancroft Prize by Columbia University.

In "Time on the Cross," economic professors Stanley L. Engerman and Robert W. Fogel of the University of Rochester used computer analysis to conclude that blacks thrived under slavery.

Navy Begins Unloading Refugees At Philippines Base

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
A ship from a U.S. naval task force carrying and shepherding some 70,000 South Vietnamese refugees began unloading evacuees from the war-torn Indochina nation at Subic Bay in the Philippines today.

A Navy spokesman said all evacuees who wanted to leave Vietnam had been picked up, but eight ships stayed behind for stragglers. They were to leave waters off South Vietnam today.

In Thailand, nearly 600 persons trapped in Phnom Penh by the Khmer Rouge takeover 10 days ago reached the Thai border by truck today in generally good health. They said 120 more were left behind but would come later. The foreigners took refuge at the French Embassy. Cambodian civilian trucks rolled up to the border town of Aranyaprathet and the sun-burned and unshaven travelers crossed a bridge over a small stream into Thailand.

Red Cross officials said the foreigners were well treated by the Khmer Rouge in Phnom Penh and by soldiers and civilians during their 3½-day journey. One man was carried in a stretcher and at least one other was reported slightly ill.

Eight newsmen in the group said they imposed a news embargo on their experiences "to ensure the safety of those still left in Phnom Penh."

In Hue, South Vietnam, Associated Press reporter Daniel De Luce said that he saw American military equipment estimated to be worth $100 million junked along the beaches where Saigon's defeated forces tried to escape from the Communists in March.

And the new Communist regime in Saigon condemned the United States today for "stealing" aircraft, vessels and other equipment from South Vietnam. A Foreign Ministry broadcast urged Washington to return the items immediately from the Philippines, Thailand, Malaysia, Singapore and Taiwan.

More than 2,000 South Vietnamese and about 100 Americans reached Subic Bay on the carrier USS Hancock. They came ashore quietly. Some women wept, children smiled and some gave a thumbs-up sign to the American crew members.

Most of the refugees were to be taken to Guam, another week's sail.

Eight Vietnamese air force helicopters used for evacuations were on the flight deck of the Hancock.

High-ranking South Vietnamese military officers who took refuge on board the USS Blue Ridge command ship were transferred today to vessels headed for Guam, the spokesman said.

The Philippines warned that former Saigon officers and leaders would be arrested if they went ashore at Subic Bay.

Area Students To Represent U.S. In Canadian Safety Patrol Rally

Four southwestern Michigan elementary students will be among 60 Michigan students to attend the Canadian National Safety Patrol rally in Ottawa, Ontario, May 22-24, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

The students are Otis Joseph Jr., Benton Harbor; Bruce Bruff, Dowagiac; Sheila Blank, Allegan; and Roger Blair, Niles.

The youngsters were chosen for the trip because of their performances as school safety patrolers, a club spokesman said.

The Michigan student delegation is the only American representation at the rally to be attended by some 8,000 Canadian students.

The students were chosen for the trip after school safety programs had been evaluated by Auto club members and local police and upon endorsements by local school principals, the Auto club spokesman added.

Joseph, 12, a sixth grader at Fairplain East school, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Joseph Sr. of 3193 Edwards road, Sodus. Bruff, 12, a sixth grader at Justus Gage school in Dowagiac, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Doan, 402 North Front street, Dowagiac.

Miss Blank, 12, is a sixth grader at West Ward school in Allegan and is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Lou Blank of 117 Crescent street, Allegan.

Blair, 11, is a fifth grader at Oak Manor elementary school in Niles and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Blair of 2503 Katheryn street, Niles.

The Michigan students are scheduled to visit the Ontario Science center in Toronto, Parliament in Ottawa, participate in a parade and stop at Niagara Falls on the return trip to Michigan, the club spokesman said.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask Them Yourself," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR JOE NAMATH

Do you receive a lot of ribbing as a result of your pantyhose commercial? Also, were you ever asked to pose for a centerfold?—Debbie Green, Orange, Texas

● Yes, I do get a lot of ribbing about the pantyhose commercial. Most people ask if I shaved my legs to do it and are surprised when I tell them that during the football season my legs are shaved anyway so that I can be taped easier. But the commercial was a lot of fun and people seem to enjoy it, so that's good. To answer the second part of your question: I have been asked several times to pose for a centerfold and each time have said no. I don't see any circumstances in the future that would make me change my mind.

FOR CLARENCE M. KELLEY, director of the FBI

To what do you attribute the crime increase? Is it due to affluence?—John Volk, New London, N.H.

● It's not possible to single out one factor. But I think it's agreed we need to deal more firmly in court with repeat offenders (more than 66 percent of all persons arrested in the U.S. have previous arrest and/or conviction records).

FOR CARMEN MCGRAE

How do you know if you're reaching your audience?—L.P., Spartanburg, S.C.

● I never gauge approval or acceptance by applause. A smile and folded arms are much more encouraging and welcome than claps and a stony expression. Faces, not hands, are what counts.

FOR MICHAEL LANDON, star of "Little House on the Prairie"

I'm curious to know why the Junior Miss Pageant, which you're hosting on May 5, is dropping the word "pageant" from its title.—E. Beste, Mansfield, Ohio

● The sponsors say the use of the word "pageant" brings to mind a beauty contest—which ours isn't. Our girls don't wear swimsuits. The real purpose of Junior Miss is educational, since it gives away over $750,000 in scholarships to its participants.

FOR BURT BACHARACH

What is your definition of success?—A.K., Redding, Calif.

● The real measure of success for me is being in a taxi and hearing the driver whistle one of my tunes, or hearing a garbage man trying to sing "Raindrops Keep Falling on My Head." To me this is the real compliment, the true recognition.

FOR CHER BONO

How do you stay so slim?—Chet Somers, Bradenton, Fla.

● My weight just never seems to go above 108 pounds, so at 5-7, I don't really have a problem. I do watch what I eat for nutrition and energy, though—and I eat a lot of fruit.

FOR CELESTE HOLM

Someone once said that Mrs. Wallis Simpson should have said "No" to the Duke of Windsor because it was wartime and his country needed him as its head. How do you feel?—C. G. Crabtree, Lansing, Mich.

● Your question interestingly puts the emphasis on Mrs. Simpson's responsibility. I think if she had refused him, she might have emerged as a real heroine. Instead they became, to me, one of the saddest couples in history—going from one resort to another, no anchor, no job, no purpose, except to maintain the illusion of romance indefinitely.

FOR DARRELL ROYAL, University of Texas football coach

Do you think instant replay on TV will ever be used to overrule a football official?—J. C. Parker, Arvonia, Va.

● No way. You'd have to rerun almost every play, and then you would have disputes over that. Besides, I think you have to make allowances for officials' mistakes, just as you do for coaches' mistakes and players' mistakes. They are honest people doing the best job they can, and I think they do a good job.

FOR EILEEN FULTON, star of "As the World Turns"

What's the biggest difference between appearing in a soap opera and appearing in a regular play?—A.S., Niagara Falls, N.Y.

● Soap operas are written as they go along, unlike a stage play, where the performers are given the complete script the day they start rehearsing. When I ask the director what's on for next week, he won't tell me, explaining: "This is like real life. Do you know what's going to happen to you next week?"

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

I've always admired Ingrid Bergman. Tell me about her private life—is she having marital problems? And what about her children?—G. Wills, San Pedro, Calif.

● Since 1960, Ingrid has been happily wed to Lars Schmidt, a businessman and theatrical producer based in Paris. They're often apart, due to stage commitments and business deals that send them off in opposite directions (he attends her openings, though). They're amused at the rumors of their "estrangement." Pia Lindstrom, Ingrid's firstborn, is a journalist-TV broadcaster, married and with two children. The Rossellini children, Roberto, 24, and twins Isabella and Ingrid, 22, all live in Rome. Miss Bergman is winding up a national tour of "The Constant Wife" (Broadway is the last stop). She helps maintain the Gladys Aylwood Orphanage in Taiwan and also supports a Vietnamese child in Saigon.

By Pat Loud Especially for FAMILY WEEKLY

Pat Loud and her daughter Dollah in their New York apartment. Pat finds that "cities offer women more of the essentials of life."

A year ago, Pat Loud, whose name had become a household word after the break-up of her marriage was recorded on TV, wrote an article for FAMILY WEEKLY saying that, despite her divorce, she still thought married life was better. Since then, Pat has been working in New York, and she is currently planning to move to Los Angeles, trading life in one big city for that in another. In the meantime, she has undergone certain changes of attitude—as this article shows.

In the middle of the game, you couldn't be righter. In fact, it all puts me in mind of that great scene in "Alice in Wonderland" when Alice tells the Queen of Hearts that she has lost her way. "Your way? Your way?" roars the Queen. "All ways here are my ways!" It's enough to make you want to look for the nearest exit. And that is more or less what I have done.

A year ago I thought that I wanted to remarry someday, and I said so, right here in FAMILY WEEKLY. I just couldn't imagine spending the rest of my life as the non-swinging single that I am, my soul hovering on the backstage of life, thinking it had missed its cue forever. After all, I had been more comfortable in my twin roles of wife and mother than a lot of people I knew, and I wanted back what I had lost. Well, I guess there's still plenty of room around the philosopher's stone for anyone who wants to try to turn that one into gold. As for me, I have taken a flying leap at life on my own and find that I love it.

I am still middle-aged, still divorced and often afraid and uncertain, but I don't consider myself a failure and I don't feel that my life is over. Contraire, my dears. After years of being a dependent wife I find it stimulating and exciting to be on my own. Three years ago I was hiding in a beautiful kitchen of a beautiful house hidden in the hills behind a beautiful town called Santa Barbara, hidden in a beautiful corner of California. I allowed myself an occasional excursion, or rather frantic foray, into the "real world" and then jumped right back behind the stove. Reality was too Think of it! In 25 years we will be well into the year 2000—which certainly sounds, from here, like a whole new dawn breaking on a whole new epoch. And it had better be a splendid one, because we've earned it. I don't think we can take much more of the way things are going now. But who knows? Maybe by that time we all will have Social Security numbers tattooed across our foreheads and our brain waves will be reproduced on computer cards to help take the guesswork out of mating. And maybe marriage will be a flimsier commitment, a revolving contract with five-year options, renewable by mutual consent and a government stamp. Or maybe we all will be too busy trying to find food and gas to care.

But it would be comforting to those of us who won't last to 2000 to know that something better than that awaits our children's children—something better than government-inspected shopping lists and dehumanized coupling. Hopefully, all our suffering, all the Sturm und Drang that has characterized much of today's scene, will help future generations cope with each other and themselves. If only we could know that the personal chaos of the 1960's and '70's will make life easier for some future someone. If those old discarded mores are no longer viable, then at least I hope we're asking the right questions and forming the bedrock for a more tolerable tone of life in the future.

What we hope we're doing is devising formulas that will enable men and women to live together without winding up hating each other. But sometimes all the emotional pushing and shoving comes across to us—and, after all, we're the ones who are living it—as an emotionally jarring psychic witch-hunt. In the confusion, conflict and uncertainty of our world we are all of us the very real victims of our times. This has frequently been true in history, but I think it is probably truer now than ever before. No one in this country has been left untouched by the fear and cynicism of our age. That old buzz saw, "Once burned, twice cautious," is particularly well suited to our generation: It is we who have watched in anguish as one after another of our most cherished beliefs has been shot down and idol after idol has turned up with feet of clay. If you get the idea that rules have been changed 25 years ago a great recipe for salad dressing got the Wish-Bone name. Times haven't changed.

Back in 1950, America's favorite salad dressing, Wish-Bone Italian, began as a restaurant dressing. It was made from an old family recipe that called for herbs and spices to be skillfully blended with oil and vinegar.

Today that same knowledge and care is used to make all the Wish-Bone dressings. That's why we're so proud of every one.

Wish-Bone. Salad dressing is the only thing we put our name on.

scary. I didn't feel competent or trained or even sufficiently motivated to function in a business capacity. I felt vulnerable, insecure, guilty and a host of other things that add up to the blues. Then I moved to New York and got a job. And if I could do that, anybody could. It took every ounce of courage I had. The pioneer spirit is not dead.

Men may conceive of the last frontier as a little cabin in the clearing of the forest primeval. But for women, the last frontier is the city. It is there that I began to find the balance and the challenge that my hometown could no longer give me. This is not at all to reject small-town life, but merely to recognize that towns are constructed for family life and single women don't really fit in. It's the cities that offer us more of the essentials of life. I live with my daughter Delilah in a New York apartment, and apartment living is more suited to a working woman's life-style. Job opportunities in the city are more varied and there's not so much discrimination against you as a woman. Also, in cities there are a lot of other single people you can meet easily and do things with, and a wider variety of entertainments to choose from. And my job! Believe it or not it's really thrilling for me to be considered a competent asset by my co-workers.

Any time you change your life, you have to make a lot of decisions—and none of them is easy. It's only human to feel terribly unsure and vulnerable at such times, and very lonely. Loneliness is the gray menace lurking at the bottom of the champagne glass of life. It steals the bubbles, but not the dregs. It can make you feel different, all right, but not in a healthy or optimistic way. For some crazy reason, if we feel unloved, it follows that we feel unlovable. Loneliness either makes us feel dull and inert or spurs us to frantic and self-destructive activity that gets us into more trouble than we'd like to admit. It's a far cry from solitude. When I'm in solitude, I spend my time with the strong me. And that's so much better than being with the cast from "Psycho" that germinates in the lonely me.

I'll never forget sitting in a bar a few months ago with a girl friend of mine from California. The place was filled with couples who seemed to be slavishly, dotingly in love with each other. I wasn't feeling too happy with myself and the sight of all that time-worn love-in-bloom only added to my depression. When we were served, my friend picked up her glass, clinked it against mine and said, "Here's to the two most beautiful and exciting women in the room." I've loved her ever since. She taught me something I needed to know, and that is, if you don't believe in yourself, no one else will. The world is a state of mind.

So the trick is to turn the hours of potential loneliness into hours of solitude. We all need to be alone sometimes to replenish ourselves. Read, catch up on the news, telephone friends, clean, wash, sew, tat, take a night course—anything—but make those hours work to fill you instead of deplete you. Don't feel trapped when you have to be alone. Relax, you're in friendly good company.

"Loneliness is the gray menace lurking at the bottom of the champagne glass of life. ... It's a far cry from solitude."

It's tough to develop an independent spirit if you've never been required to or didn't realize that it shows a healthy state of mind. When I was in college I knew a girl who managed to pull down high grades in tough courses, but she talked baby talk with her boyfriend! Now there's a candidate for the rubber room. What was she trying to prove? That she was helpless? If so, why? I have no way of knowing, because she never told me and we never kept in touch. But I know that to make yourself less than you are in order to please anybody is sick. It's self-polarized masochism. It's disgusting deception, and there is, thank God, no place for it in today's world. Be what you are, but for Heaven's sake be everything that you are and know that your femininity is not in question just because you happen to be smart.

I like being able to take care of myself. I never thought that I would or could, but I do. It's all part of "Life's Great Pageant"—as it used to be called—the learning to deal with frustrations and anger, triumphs and failures, and even the plateaus, till we find out what really makes us tick. Learning when to hang in and when to let go. It puts me in mind of the great whales straining plankton through their balers. These enormous creatures live on tons of microscopic marine life, accepting or rejecting with monolithic savoir faire everything that floats their way. They know enough not to try to swallow grand pianos, but they don't stop eating if they've swilled down a few dozen bad shrimp, either. Life is a great big ocean to nose around in—and, like Mama Whale, I feel right at home.

A '60's Postscript:

The Poignant Story of Jan and Dean

Jan and Dean epitomized the West Coast surfer sound. Their records gave you the feeling of kids without a care in the world. That was until the day when Jan Berry's sports car suddenly went out of control....

By Randal C. Hill

The sleek green Sting Ray swung off busy Sunset Boulevard three blocks from a sharply twisting, poorly banked turn known locally as Deadman's Curve. Accelerating the car smoothly, the handsome blond driver was suddenly confronted with the unexpected—an unseen car, approaching from a bend in a residential street. The driver of the Sting Ray jerked the steering wheel to avoid a collision. The Corvette's fiber-glass body shattered as it slammed into a parked gardener's truck—then silence as the driver lay still in the twisted mass of metal and plastic.

Pulled from the wreckage, miraculously alive, was 25-year-old Jan Berry of a popular duo known as Jan and Dean. Berry was rushed to a local hospital, where he remained in a deep coma for five weeks. Family and friends of the singing star maintained a constant vigil as Berry clung to the thin thread that separated him from the dim spark of life and the emptiness of death.

The month was April, 1966.

Ask how many remember who Jan and Dean were and you're likely to get a lot of "I dunno's." The public forgets. Memories are particularly short when it comes to pop music and rock and roll. But from 1958 to 1966, Jan Berry and Dean Torrence managed to produce a stream of hits that included "Surf City," "Little Old Lady From Pasadena,"

Jan and Dean are now in their early 30's. Their "golden era" ended in 1966.

"Honolulu Luau," "Drag City," "Linda," "Jennie Lee," and dozens of other bristling songs. Jan and Dean epitomized the West Coast teenage-surfer sound. Listening to their records, you got the image of golden-haired, suntanned youth—kids without a care in the world and with nothing more serious in their futures than a dirty carburetor or a wave that failed to break.

But there was more than tragedy that awaited Jan Berry—there was irony too. Two years before the accident, one of Jan and Dean's biggest hits (790,000 copies) had been "Deadman's Curve," a pounding, blaring paean to the excitement of drag-racing down Sunset Boulevard in a new Sting Ray. In the song, Berry (who sang lead and wrote the lyrics) pits his Corvette against a Jaguar XK-E. The climax crashes down amid screeching tires and shattering glass, with Berry intoning in a flat voice,

"Well, the last thing I remember, Doc, I started to swerve.

And then I saw the Jag slide into the curve.

I know I'll never forget that horrible sight.

I guess I found out for myself that everyone was right.

You don't come back from Deadman's Curve."

Emerging sluggishly from the coma, Jan Berry found himself unable to speak or move his head. Figures of people were misty, moving blurs. His temple had been injured in the accident, damaging the left side of his brain. This is the area responsible for word-comprehension and language-formulation abilities. It seemed to mark the end of a charmed existence for the straight-A UCLA-premed student with a posh $120,000 Bel Air home.

Top speech pathologists were rushed in, but initial recovery proved painfully slow. Doctors were pessimistic. Berry was unable to walk for a year, forced to give his total concentration to the simplest act of standing up from his wheelchair. He began speech-and-language therapy in which the primary objective of his program was to learn to recognize letters and words. From this followed the relearning of basic speech.

A year after the accident Jan finally was able to master reading the simplest books. But he apparently had lost none of his creative musical ability. (He had written, arranged and produced most of Jan and Dean's records, all without formal musical training.) This discovery seemed to provide Berry with the much-needed impetus to improve "more than he was supposed to." Doctors and therapists were astounded at the results.

In the meantime, rock music continued its nonstop metamorphosis. The Beatles conquered the music scene. Psychedelia emerged. Jan and Dean songs became relegated to "oldies but goodies" weekends on pop-music stations. Their albums often ended up as "dumps," tossed into drugstore bins with price tags of 59¢. Jan, forgotten by a fickle public, continued his struggle for improvement in obscurity. He worked daily to relearn the basics of communication, and the years passed with continuous therapy. People stopped asking, "Whatever happened to Jan and Dean?"

Dean Torrence, now 34, graduated from USC with a degree in art in 1967. Today he heads Kittyhawk Graphics in Hollywood, where he designs record-album covers.

Jan Berry is now 33. Most of the fortune he amassed during his prosperous days has gone into therapy expenses. The sprawling Hawaiian-modern house he once owned has been sold. Once again, he lives with his parents. Each day finds him at his piano, neatly printing song lyrics and picking out melody lines with his left hand. He has limited use of his right hand and hemispherical vision in both eyes; although he is able to drive and owns a car. He walks with a slight limp, and when he speaks, there are occasional comprehension problems.

Time and musical styles may have passed by the golden era of Jan and Dean, when the carefree surfing and drag-racing songs from California were in vogue. Jan Berry, nevertheless, remains confident that he will once again record hit songs. He gazes wistfully from the window of his home above Hollywood and picks out the melody of a new Berry composition, "Tinsettown." It is an ode to the world of glamour and fame that was once, at least partially, his.

Kmart
... gives satisfaction always

At Your Local K mart Store

I lost half of myself without taking diet pills.

By Donna Walker — as told to Ruth L. McCarthy

When I was 66 inches around, and 65 inches tall, even my favorite fat lady's store had a problem. I know, because at 278 pounds I wore the largest bloomers they carried. And that's the only word for them — bloomers — even though I'm of the generation that usually refers to ladies' panties as briefs.

Fact is, the thought of having nothing to wear made me so panicky, I said to myself: "This is it! You've got to lose weight, Donna." Not that I was unaware of my size before. There were too many embarrassing reminders in my life for me to ignore my weight. Let me tell you a few of them . . . for laughs.

At my fullest figure, I fit so snugly into a tub that the water was dammed up behind me when I pulled the plug out in front of me. And when I stood up in a shower stall, I couldn't even bend over to pick up a bar of soap. I was trapped upright by my own appetite.

Actually I've been stuck in more places than you can imagine: a seat in a movie house, a Carnival turnstyle, even my own armchair. Why, I was wedged in so many times, the friction from my fanny wore out the upholstery.

As for dresses, I had one — to go to work in. I washed it every night and every day for one year because it was the only dress that fit.

Now if you think this whole situation embarrassed me, let me tell you it shamed my poor mother. She was always making excuses for me. Like when I was a child she used to say: "It's only 'baby' fat. It'll go away." But she was still saying it when I was 28 years of age!

I think I ought to mention that chocolate and sweets were my undoing. But ironically, candy is what really helped me to lose weight. Ayds® Reducing Plan Candy. I'd read ads about it in magazines and when I learned that Ayds contains vitamins and minerals but no drugs, I thought maybe there was something in it for me. I sure knew from past experience that diet pills, weekly reducing sessions, and even a psychiatrist were not the answer for me. I needed something to help curb my appetite and my eternal craving for sweets.

So, I bought a box of chocolate fudge Ayds at the drug store and started on the plan in the fall. I took one or two Ayds about 15 minutes before each meal with a hot drink and it really helped me cut down on what I ate. And I ate regular meals. I didn't prepare anything special.

At 278 pounds, I was no mermaid. Believe it or not, I had a friend who once called me a Flaming Island! I laughed, but I really didn't think that it was very funny!

Now at 136 pounds, my hometown friends in West Hartford, Connecticut, hardly recognize me. As a matter of fact, whenever I look into the mirror, I hardly recognize myself.

Right from the start, I had such a positive feeling about the Ayds plan, I even took on a $50 bet from my friend's husband. He'd heard me talk about losing weight for 10 years, but never saw me do anything about it. So he figured it was going to be an easy win. But in the end he had to pay up, because that weight came off.

Nobody really noticed it until I'd lost more than 50 pounds. You see, I hadn't bought any new clothes so I was hidden under a lot of baggy pants and sacky tops. Then at Easter, when I'd taken off 78 pounds on the Ayds plan, I turned out in a new lavender pantsuit and everybody was amazed. As for me, I was so thrilled, I was determined to stick to the Ayds plan, even on my birthday. Some friends dropped by with a "Have-a-happy" box from the bakery and I thought: "How mean!" But when I opened it, it was filled with celery and a lot of laughs. I knew then that everybody was rooting for me.

I guess, though, we never see ourselves as others do. Let me tell you about a remark my nephew made while I was still losing weight. He'd seen me at his sister's wedding, wearing a size 52 beige tent. Months after I'd been on the Ayds plan, I appeared at his wedding in a size 18 dress. He was so shocked, his eyes opened wide, then his mouth. "What were you wearing the last time I saw you — your beige Volkswagen?" Funny, I knew I was fat, but not that fat.

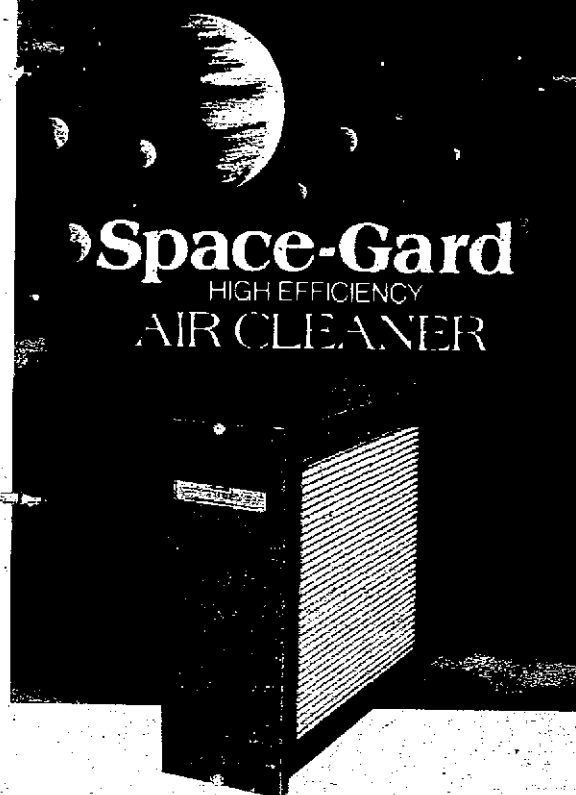

How long did it take me to lose 142 pounds on the Ayds plan? Just about a year and now I can do things I never could before. For the first time, I can cross my legs — like a lady. I can also see all of me in a mirror. And I can even climb up a pool ladder without fear of breaking it.

On the serious side, my teenage nieces and nephews are now proud to introduce me as their aunt. As for my relations with my parents, I can tell you that they've never been better. In fact, everybody I know is happier with me, since I'm now only 37½ inches around. Which makes me forever grateful for the Ayds plan.

- 1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
- Whole cloves

1. In large bowl, with electric mixer at medium-high speed, cream butter until light. Gradually add 2 cups confectioners' sugar, beating at low speed as you add.
2. Beat in egg yolks and brandy. Stir flour with salt and baking powder and gradually beat into mixture.
3. Blend in vanilla extract and knead dough until smooth. Using about 1 tablespoon dough, roll into a crescent or ball shape.
4. Place cookies on lightly greased cookie sheets. Place a whole clove in center of each.
5. Bake in preheated 375° F. oven for about 20 minutes. Cookies will be pale gold. Roll in remaining 1 cup confectioners' sugar while warm. Makes about 7 dozen Build it yourself!

With a learn-at-home program as fascinating as home entertainment electronics, reading about it is just not enough!

Once you discover something that really fascinates you, no matter what it is, reading about it is just not enough. You want to be involved. You want firsthand experience.

That's exactly how Bell & Howell Schools' exciting learn-at-home program in electronics works. You learn by doing, experimenting, trying it yourself. That's why throughout this unique program you get practical "hands-on" experience with some of today's latest electronics training tools.

Throughout your learning adventure with Bell & Howell Schools, the key word is build.

It doesn't matter if you've never had any training in electronics before. We start you off with the basics and help you work your way up one step at a time. As a matter of fact, with your very first lesson, you receive a special Lab Starter Kit to give you immediate working experience on equipment as you are picking up the fundamentals. It makes the learning process faster and certainly a lot more interesting.

You'll build and work with remarkable educational tools as you explore advances in electronics—"State-of-the-art" equipment that's being used today—and will be used tomorrow. So the skills and knowledge you will acquire will be useful for years to come.

You'll build your own electronics laboratory!

With Bell & Howell's Electro-Lab® electronic training system—theory comes to life. And you'll make it happen! In building each of these modern test instruments you'll get experience in wiring, soldering, assembling. Then you'll use the lab for testing, troubleshooting and circuit analyzing.

First, the design console. After you assemble it, you'll be able to set up and examine circuits without having to solder them in place.

Next, you'll build a digital multimeter. This important instrument measures voltage, current and resistance, and displays its findings in big, clear numbers like on a digital clock.

Then comes the solid-state "triggered sweep" oscilloscope similar in principle to the kind used in hospitals to monitor heartbeats.

You'll use it to analyze tiny integrated circuits. The triggered sweep feature locks in signals for easier observation.

You'll actually build and work with a new generation color TV...investigating features you've probably never seen before!

This 25" diagonal color TV has digital features that are likely to appear on all TV's of the future. Features made possible by the applications of digital electronics to home entertainment.

You'll probe into the technology behind all-electronic tuning. And into the digital circuitry of channel numbers that appear on the screen! You'll build-in an on-the-screen digital clock and learn to program a special automatic channel selector that goes directly to the channels of your choice.

You'll also better understand the exceptional color clarity of the Black Matrix picture tube, and gain working knowledge of "state-of-the-art" integrated circuitry and the 100% solid-state chassis.

Simulated TV picture/test pattern.

Electro-Lab® is a registered trademark of the Bell & Howell Company.

After building and experimenting with this TV, you'll be equipped with the kinds of skills that could put you ahead in electronics know-how.

Once you've completed this program, your skills in electronic trouble-shooting could lead you in exciting new directions. While we cannot offer assurance of income opportunities you can use your training: to seek out a job in the electronics industry, to upgrade your current job, or as a foundation for advanced programs in electronics.

Building. Learning. Growing. Without missing a day of work or a single paycheck!

Because this is a home study program, you study at your convenience—without being a classroom captive. That means there'll be no conflicts with your job or other interests.

And even though you're on your own, we'll be there to help if you should ever run into a rough spot. Most schools make you mail in all your questions. We have a toll-free line you can call when you have a question that can't wait.

For even more personal attention, Bell & Howell Schools' "help sessions" are held in 50 major cities at various times throughout the year, where you can meet and talk with your instructors and fellow students.

A school's reputation can't be built on what it is going to do.

...but rather on what it has done and is doing right now. That's why Bell & Howell Schools' 43 years of experience in electronics home study is your best guarantee that our "hands-on" learning method really works.

Many thousands of people each year choose Bell & Howell Schools' home learning programs to start or further their electronics education. Discover this fascinating program in home entertainment electronics for yourself.

Hockey's Howe & Sons: The Drive Behind the Greatest Family Act Ever

By Larry Bortstein

Gordie Howe at 47: Still one of the strongest bodies in hockey.

"Bill said, 'Gordie, why don't you come on down to Houston with us?' We all had a good laugh, but then we realized we were all serious."

From his position on left defense, Marty Howe deftly stickhandled the puck across center ice, then passed it ahead to Mark Howe on left wing. Spotting a muscular figure breaking unchecked in front of the crease, Mark slipped the rock-hard rubber disk in that direction. Gordie Howe caught it on his stick. Then he calmly shot it past the sprawling goaltender. Chalk up another score for the Howe family of the Houston Aeros.

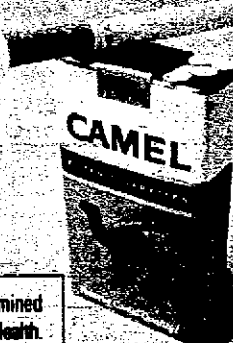

This is not an uncommon occurrence in the World Hockey Association. To the delight of the ever-increasing number of hockey followers in Houston—and to the amazement of nearly everyone—the Howe trio continues to make athletic history every time the threesome laces on ice skates for the Aeros. The presence of a father and two sons as teammates in a major professional sport is a family sporting saga that has no equal anywhere.

There is the father Gordie, age 47, generally acclaimed as the finest all-round performer in the history of the sport. There is oldest son Marty, 21, and Mark, the second oldest son, who soon will reach the age of 20. All three debuted with the Aeros last season, and all they did was lead the Houston club to the WHA championship. Gordie was voted the league's Most Valuable Player award and Mark its Rookie of the Year award. Marty was a workhorse defenseman. Their performance was equally fine this year.

Less than two years ago, about the farthest thing from the elder Howe's mind was returning to a playing role. He had closed out 25 seasons of unparalleled brilliance with the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League in 1971, leaving with virtually every major career scoring record, including 786 goals. At age 45, Gordie could afford to sit back and watch another generation of skaters chase after his records.

Although this book can mean hundreds and perhaps thousands of dollars to you, it is priced at only $3.00. Remember, it is not enough to qualify for your Social Security benefits. To get your benefits you must know how to apply for them. You could find out by literally spending days reading through all sorts of Government materials, or visiting Social Security Administration offices... but this book quickly and plainly tells you how to qualify, who to contact—including all necessary addresses, and what to say. This is a 100% no risk offer. If you do not like the book, return it and your $3.00 will be immediately refunded. You will still get the confidential report on your Social Security account.

If you do not take advantage of your new Social Security benefits, you are only cheating yourself, after all, you have already paid for them. It is easy to start getting your new Social Security benefits. Just fill out both parts of the coupon below. Mail the coupon and $3.00 in cash, check or money order to The Good News Publishing Company, 515 Galveston St., Fort Worth, Texas 76104. The book will be sent to you immediately by return mail. Painful elimination is unnatural.

Many people have experienced the pain of dry, hard stools. And many have come to accept this, as if it were a natural part of elimination.

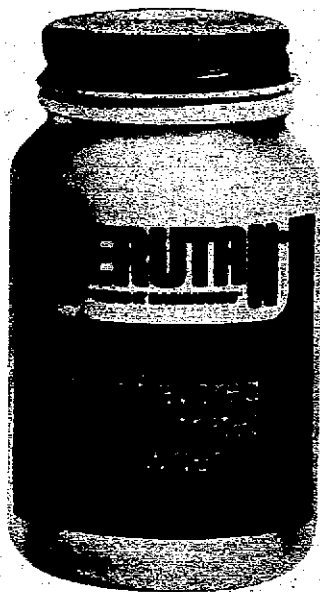

But there's nothing natural about it.

The truth is, no matter what your age, you should have comfortable elimination.

And Serutan makes this possible.

Serutan is the effective laxative that forms a smooth gel in the lower digestive tract, where it combines with intestinal waste to give you comfortable relief. There's no strain, and no cramps. That's because Serutan, with its natural ingredients, adds the necessary moisture and bulk to work with your system for smooth, easy results.

If you suffer from painful elimination due to constipation or dry, hard stools, try Serutan. You'll be very comfortable with it.

Incredible Howe Family

"My coming back to play all started out as kind of a joke, really," he recalls. "The Aeros drafted both Marty and Mark in the summer of 1973. The boys had been stars with the Toronto Marlboros in the junior league of Ontario. The Aeros sent their top people up to Detroit to talk with us about the boys going to Houston. One of the guys who came up to see us was Bill Dineen, the coach of the Aeros, who played five years with me in Detroit and is an old friend.

"We were sitting around talking about Marty and Mark," Gordie continues, "and Bill said, 'Gordie, why don't you come on down to Houston with us? We all had a good laugh, but then we realized we were all serious. I had always wanted to play with the boys, but I never thought it could happen. Now I was going to get the chance. I couldn't turn it down.'"

Joining the Aeros also gave Gordie a perfect excuse for leaving the Red Wing orga-gressive defenseman, who figures to spend many seasons in professional hockey.

Then there is the third Howe son, Murray, 14 years old, who is also coming along strongly in hockey. When the rest of the family moved South two summers ago, Murray remained in the Detroit area. "He lives with the Chuck Robertsons," says Gordie. "They're old friends of the family. Murray was doing so well in the junior-hockey program in Detroit that it would have set him back to take him to Houston, where hockey for young kids is just getting started."

If another member of the Howe clan has a say, every kid in Houston and its environs may soon be on skates. Colleen Howe, Gordie's lovely blonde wife, ran the junior-hockey program in Detroit out of the Olympia, the home arena of the Red Wings; and now is taking the lead in bringing the ice sport to youthful Texans. Together with the family's secretary, Dorothy Ringler, who has worked for the Howes since 1971, Colleen runs the affairs of Gordon Howe Enterprises, Inc., from an office in downtown Houston.

"There's so much going on with Gord and the boys," says Mrs. Howe, "that it takes a full workday just to keep up to date on their mail, their business commitments and all the things they do for hockey in Houston. We run this like a family business and we think we do a good job. Next year, when the Aeros move into The Summit, the new $18 million arena the city is putting up, things will probably get even more hectic because more people will be able to see the Aeros' games and there'll be even more hockey interest than there is now."

About the only Howe offspring not likely to be employed by the Aeros in the near future is Gordie and Colleen's only daughter, 16-year-old Cathy, who attends high school near the Howe home, a mini-mansion in the richly wooded Memorial section of western Houston. "But Cathy comes to all the games and cheers for her father and big brothers," says Colleen Howe.

Throughout sports history, there have been many family combinations on teams. There were the three DiMaggio brothers and five Delahanty brothers in major-league baseball. There once were seven brothers named Nesser playing pro football in Columbus, Ohio, in the early 1900's. Wrestling had five Dusek brothers.

In father-son sports combinations, there was the Jennings Nine of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., a baseball team in the 1880's that consisted of James Jennings and his eight sons. One of the sons, Hughie, went on to major-league fame as a shortstop with the Baltimore Orioles.

But these exploits are barely recalled today. Houston's Howes have become national figures. They may eventually forge another first among sporting families by becoming the first household to have more than one member enshrined in a Hall of Fame. Gordie was elected to hockey's pantheon after completing his NHL career in Detroit. Can his sons be far behind?

"There's so much going on with Gord and the boys," says Mrs. Howe, "that it takes a full workday just to keep up to date on their mail...."

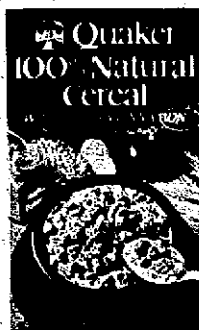

nization. "I was thinking of quitting anyway," he recalls with bitterness. "All I was doing for two years as vice president in charge of nothing was shaking hands with people. I never participated in any decisions involving players or trades or anything. I suppose my 25 years of experience weren't enough."

Gordie scored 31 goals for Houston last year, and he scored with equal frequency this year. He is four and a half years older than Dineen, the coach of the Aeros, but shows little sign of age, continuing to see extended ice time on a regular line and to work on the Aeros' power play. His 6-0, 205-pound finely muscled body has long been considered the strongest in all of hockey.

Time eventually will catch up with Gordie, who is undoubtedly the most remarkable middle-aged athlete in history. But even when he finally retires, Aero opponents will still have to contend with two, and possibly three, other Howes. Mark, who stands 5-11 and weighs 180 pounds, powered 38 pucks into the nets in 1973-74, one of the highest totals ever achieved by a rookie in big-league hockey. He is a superstar in the making. Marty, less flashy and less naturally gifted, nonetheless is a solid,

Where there's smoke there's controversy.

The papers are filled with stories against smoking.
But many people are continuing to smoke. They like it.

Yet it's obvious that there are smokers who have become concerned about what they've been hearing about 'tar' and nicotine. And so—many of them are trying lower 'tar' and nicotine cigarettes.

If you're a smoker who's become concerned, you (and millions like you) have been facing a dilemma.

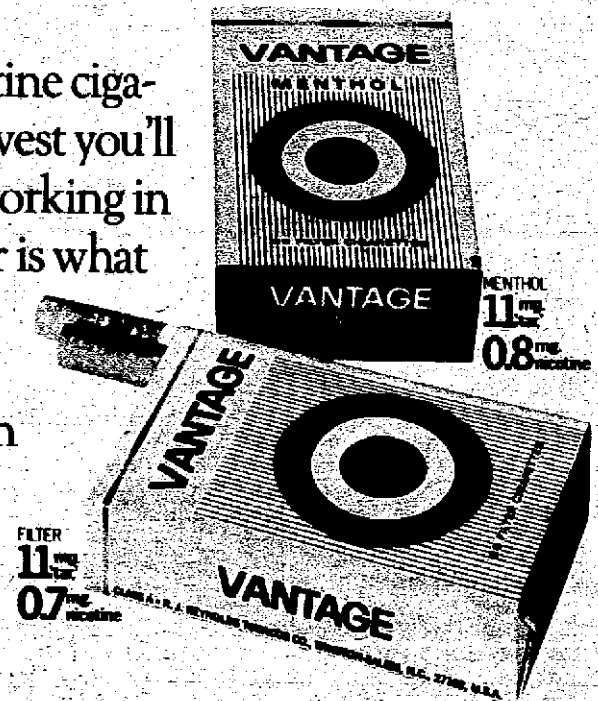

Until Vantage, cigarettes that had lots of flavor had lots of 'tar' and nicotine. And cigarettes that were way down in 'tar' and nicotine were way down in taste.

Most smokers found that most low 'tar' cigarettes just didn't make it. But then we started making Vantage.

Vantage is not the lowest 'tar' and nicotine cigarette you'll find, but it could well be the lowest you'll enjoy. Exactly the right blend of tobacco working in harmony with the ingenious Vantage filter is what made it possible.

And that's why Vantage has become the fastest growing major cigarette brand in America.

There's no controversy about that.

How Well Do You Know The Art of "People-Handling"?

True or False: The best way to handle a child when you've got to get a splinter out of his finger or disinfect a wound is to tell him that it isn't going to hurt a bit. (See number 2)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. If a lady has to face an irate male because of some blunder or oversight on her part, she should draw attractively for the encounter.
2. The best way to handle a child when you've got to get a splinter out of his finger or disinfect a wound is to tell him that it isn't going to hurt a bit.
3. If you can't keep a person from frustrating you, you'd better stay away from him or you won't be able to manage your blood pressure either.
4. If you want to draw a person out—to learn as much as you can about him in the shortest possible time—you should invite him to sit in a comfortable reclining-style chair.
5. A girl who plays "hard to get" is likely to discourage the very man she wants to attract.
6. There is no diplomatic way to insult someone.

ANSWERS

1. True. Psychological studies have shown that a man won't get nearly so mad at a woman—regardless of what she's done to provoke him—if she wears something that accents her most attractive features. Her choice of attire for the encounter may run the gamut, from the most flattering dress in her wardrobe to a miniskirt, bikini or whatever the lady feels she looks best in. While this tactic isn't guaranteed to reduce a man's anger to the status of a melted candle, it is warranted to take the edge off it.
2. False. Studies at Wayne State University have demonstrated that this is precisely the wrong way to go about reducing a child's pain and discomfort—and is likely to increase it if anything. Tests showed that when subjects were given a description of the pain sensation they were about to experience, they rated its intensity and distress on a far lower scale than when this procedure was not followed.
3. True. Studies at the University of Manitoba and Florida State University show that when a person frustrates you in some way, your blood pressure climbs significantly—and that it stays at an elevated level as long as you remain in the presence of the frustrator.

4. False.—according to psychological studies at the University of Kansas, which demonstrated "that some postures are more conducive to certain psychological processes than others... and... the sitting-erect posture encouraged subjects to talk more about themselves than the supposedly more comfortable postures." Both the men and women subjects of the study indicated that they felt the most comfortable in the sitting-erect posture. And it's suggested that they may have felt more vulnerable in the supine and sitting-bent postures—and thus were less at ease. The fact that psychiatric patients are asked to assume a reclining posture may be due to the special nature of the patient-specialist relationship.

5. False. A team of behavioral scientists at the University of Wisconsin has made a careful study of the hard-to-get phenomenon and evaluated its efficacy. "We have," they concluded, "finally gained an understanding of this process. It appears that a woman can intensify her desirability if she acquires a reputation for being hard to get and then, by her behavior, makes it clear to a selected romantic partner that she is attracted to him."

6. False. The way to insult someone diplomatically is to compliment him—preferably in the presence of others—in such a way that it sounds as though you don't mean it. Complimenting him on virtues or attributes that both you and he know he lacks has a disconcerting and ego-disturbing effect that must be seen to be appreciated. And the side glances likely to be exchanged by any others present can't help but add to the subject's discomfort.

BEST FOOT FORWARD

A new high for "togetherness"?

Sweethearts Carol Whitlock and Graham Seymour are proof that love is the best crutch of all. Within hours, they both broke bones in their right legs. Graham was the first victim—he stumbled while attempting a Kung Fu move and broke his leg in two places. Carol drove him to the hospital but on her way home she hit a lamppost and suffered three broken toes and two cracked ribs. "I must have been dreaming of Graham's mishap when I had mine," she explained.

Billie Jean King and tennis "snobbery": "Billie Jean played in her first tournament at the age of 11½, and the events of that contest have great bearing on many of her attitudes toward the game today. The day before the tournament, Billie Jean learned that it was required that she wear white in order to play. Her mother then spent the night before the game making her a beautiful pair of tennis shorts. Yet, on the following day, Billie Jean was excluded from the group picture because she wasn't wearing a skirt. The slight hurt. And to this day Billie Jean charges that tennis is too 'snooty' and 'chubby,' too closed, in fact, to poor and lower-middle-class kids. She once blew up at a society writer who wanted an interview, insisting that what was wrong with tennis was that it was covered on the society and not the sports pages. The United States Lawn Tennis Association has shrunk in horror from her suggestions that tennis fans be encouraged

JACK LEMMON

"I am contemporary man"

The real Jack Lemmon talks about Jack Lemmon, the film image: "I play the harried businessman or beset male with such conviction because I'm just as frustrated with contemporary life as the average guy in the audience. We're all in this together, rich or poor. The more money you make, the better you try to live, the more complicated it becomes. In essence, I am contemporary man. If I put on robes like Charlton Heston, people would laugh at me. I'm not cursed with beauty, which in this case is to my advantage. My success as a comic actor can be attributed to my belief that comedy has to be played as seriously as drama. Even a frothy spoof has to be played as if it were Hamlet." Jack is currently starring in "Prisoner of Second Avenue."

ARMOUR'S ARMOUR

By Richard Armour

OUR DREAM HOUSE

When we build a new house, if ever we do,
We'll show that we've learned a thing or two:
A living room we shall do away with,
Since our family room is the one we stay with;
A dining room we can do without,
Since we eat in the kitchen or else dine out;
The closets and storage spaces and such
Will be larger, I'd say, than the rooms are, much. . .
My intentions are good, I'm no stupid or bad man,

But the architect surely will think me a madman.

A belligerent type turned suddenly to the man sitting next to him in a bar and demanded, "Did you just give me a nasty look?" The man shook his head. "You certainly have a nasty look," he replied calmly, "but I didn't give it to you."
—Lane Olinghouse

The fellow next door is putting in a new lawn. I'm hoping mine will turn green with envy.
—Robert Brault

"He was such a bad musician," panned one critic, "that when he played the national anthem, people sat down."
—Tom Gallagher

Husband: "This cake is delicious. Did you buy it yourself?"
—Lucille S. Harper

Nothing creates a firmer belief in heredity than having a good-looking child.

THROUGH A CHILD'S EYES

Very impressed with her first Sunday at church, my four-year-old granddaughter asked her mother why all the people were kneeling. "Shhh," her mother replied. "They are getting ready to say their prayers." Puzzled, the little one asked, "With all their clothes on?"
—Helen LaMance

After the fire was out, the firemen were pulling in their hoses and stowing their gear. I overheard a mother telling her little boy, "See, Junior, when the firemen are finished, they put all their toys away."
—Tom Gallagher

LITTLE EMILY

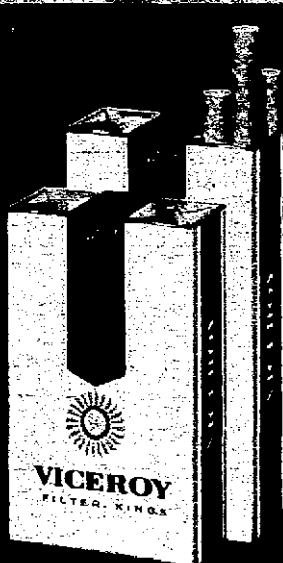

"I'm warning you. This is not the same bubbly, vivacious blonde who talked to you on the phone last night."

He's just won $25,000, poured a bucket of champagne over his head.
He's not going to follow all that with a boring cigarette.
